GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Girl Scout Activities

Troops of schools South of State street in Jacksonville were well represented at the Neighborhood meetings on Thursday, Jan. 23, at the home of the neighborhood chairman, Mrs. Alvin Griffin. Interest was stimulated and it was felt by the enthusiastic adults who attended that much would be gained from this monthly exchange of ideas and training assistance.

Brownie troop 41, South Jacksonville school, met on Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the home of one of their leaders, Mrs. Esther Hemminger, and with the assistance of their leader, Mrs. H. P. Honstead and troop committee mother, Mrs. Burl Anders, they prepared an entire supper consisting of stew, biscuits, salad and pudding. The 14 members of the troop did an excellent job in preparing this supper, everyone enjoyed eating it, and of course everyone helped clean up afterward. The girls are going to have a doll show at the next meeting, each one bringing her favorite doll, and then during the month of February they hope to make doll costumes to depict clothes of other countries, since February is International Friendship Month.

Intermediate troop 43, Franklin school, whose leaders are Mrs. Cecil Cline and Mrs. W. C. Everette, are working on the Bookbinding badge as a troop. They have three new members in the troop, namely, Karen Wilson and Karen Hellemeier, as well as Kittrell Wagner, who is transfer from another troop. All the girls are also enjoying very much writing a round robin letter to a friend in England.

On Tuesday, Jan. 21, Intermediate Troop 55, of Jonathan Turner Junior High school, and their leader, Mrs. R. Y. Rowe, Jr., visited the Camera Club at its regular meeting in the MacMurray College Library. They are working on their Photography badge and obtained a great deal of information and inspiration from seeing the pictures shown by Camera Club members.

On January 22, 1958, our troop had a business meeting in the auditorium at Lafayette school. Everyone was present, 14 Scouts in all. After our business meeting, we went to the Duncan Home in Duncan Park. When we arrived at the Duncan Home we went to the dining room in the three-story house. Miss Janette Powell was so kind as to tell us the story of Mrs. Duncan's life which I and I know everyone else enjoyed. She showed us a beautiful doll dressed like Mrs. Duncan used to dress. Afterwards we toured the big house which was very interesting, and we saw many old-fashioned things. Then Mrs. Drennan took us to the dining room again and served the troop sandwiches and hot cocoa, which was very good. We sat at Governor Duncan's dining table. I had a very nice time and I know everyone else did, too.

On Tuesday, Jan. 21, Intermediate Troop 55, of Jonathan Turner Junior High school, and their leader, Mrs. R. Y. Rowe, Jr., visited the Camera Club at its regular meeting in the MacMurray College Library. They are working on their Photography badge and obtained a great deal of information and inspiration from seeing the pictures shown by Camera Club members.

Attorney C. G. Colburn
Addresses Virginia PTA

VIRGINIA—About 50 members of the Virginia Parent Teachers Association were present at a meeting held in the high school gym, Tuesday, Jan. 21. A brief business meeting was held and the president, Mrs. Floyd Leonard, announced that the recent questionnaire sent through the schools to the parents reveal that only about fifty percent of our school-age children have received their polio inoculations. Everyone is urged to see that his children receive all three inoculations and to do all he can to urge parents to have their children inoculated.

Mrs. David Finney gave a brief treasurer's report and stated at the time of the meeting there were 128 paid memberships for this year. Parents of the children in Mrs. Helen Hackman's room had the largest representation at the meeting for the third straight month, so this room will receive the picture for their room permanently. Another picture will be secured so the contest can continue.

Mrs. William M. Yaple introduced Attorney C. G. Colburn, president of Virginia unit school board, who spoke on "Federal Aid vs. State Aid For Our Schools." Mr. Colburn outlined all the state and federal aids received by our schools and how the amounts are determined. It is his opinion our schools should be locally supported so far as is possible, but if outside aid is needed, this aid should come out of state, rather than by federal funds. However, he feels the government might set certain standards for our schools to see that subjects are taught in all schools whereby all high school graduates will have received necessary training to enable them to pass entrance exams in any college or university. He outlined five fundamental subjects which make up a good educational system—science, mathematics, foreign languages, history and English. He stated some school systems do not stress all of these basic subjects, and further noted that Virginia schools still offer all five.

Mr. Colburn noted a trend during the past few years placing, in his opinion, too much emphasis on athletics and physical education and too little on the basic subjects, especially science and mathematics. To support his view he gave the following figures: In 1955, there were 9738 physical education teachers graduated from our colleges and universities, against 5319 science teachers and only 1527 mathematics instructors. Mr. Colburn's talk was very informative and well received by the audience.

Refreshments of coffee and homemade cookies were served following the meeting.

Program chairman Alfred Hodgson, introduced L. C. Bruggemann, Internal Revenue agent and group supervisor from Springfield, who was the speaker of the evening. He gave a brief history of income tax laws as they have been passed through the past 40 years.

After Bruggemann's talk, there was a lively session in which he answered questions from the floor, these ranging from length of time in which returns are subject to review to deductions to be claimed when a portion of the income is made while working at home.

Persons
Walter F. Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Woods of Waverly, has been appointed boat-swain's mate of the watch of his recruit company at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center. As a recruit petty officer he wears a miniature rating insignia as a badge of authority during most of his nine weeks of boot camp. He graduated Jan. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cramer and family of Mexico, Mo., were last weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Cramer's sister, Mrs. Henry Hebel and family.

Mrs. Matt Thompson of Beardstown arrived Sunday for a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. George Dorwart.

Large 16x20 Brownstone portraits of the winners will be exhibited in our front window Jan. 27 through Feb. 2. Then the winners may pick them up at their convenience.

Last week I told you of a new non-reflective glass that we now sell and we have had several calls for it. This TRUE-SITE glass will work wonders for all of your pictures you have framed in your home. No longer is the image blocked out by glare—there just isn't any glare. Why not come in and let us prove it to you. Your pictures will be so much more beautiful.

Due to the bad weather last Tuesday Bill didn't go to Quincy to appear on WGEM-TV. Bill will be on Flying Jim's Monday evening at 10:15. March 27, 1958. No foolin, this time.

This Week At The Morgan Co. Red Cross

By MRS. JOHN H. DuBOIS

"Thank you" was the keynote at the Red Cross chapter office this past week. Letters of appreciation have been sent to every individual, business house and organization that contributed to the highly successful operation of last week's Bloodmobile visit.

An unexpected outcome of this Bloodmobile visit is reported by Mrs. Harry Killam, temporary chairman of Canteen Service during the illness of Canteen Chairman Miss Nelle Doying: where heretofore canteen chairmen have had to ask for volunteers to serve blood donors, already many have called, offering their services for the next Bloodmobile visit.

The next Bloodmobile visit, the second of ten visits scheduled for Jacksonville this year, will be March 27 and 28. The Bloodmobile will be in Waverly March 20, and Mrs. Harold Lowery is chairman for that visit.

A check of the records after the Bloodmobile visit revealed an amazing number of faithful, repeat donors: Morgan county boasts 257 gallon donors, 37 two-gallon donors, and two donors here have given three gallons, or 24 pints. Another donor came prepared to give his 24th pint, but was turned down for temporary medical complications. He is determined to make it three gallons in March.

The Standard First Aid course started Thursday evening with ten in attendance. Under the direction of Fire Chief Howard Reynolds, the course will continue for five consecutive Thursday evenings in the chapter office. Persons who were not able to attend Thursday's session are still eligible to enroll next Thursday evening.

Individual Red Cross assistance was given in seven cases this week; emergency leave was arranged for one soldier; two veterans received financial assistance; four persons required counseling in personal and family relations.

A letter of appreciation has been received from a woman in Maryland whose late sister received 23 pints of blood at Passavant hospital. The woman has undertaken to replace that blood, donated through the Riverdale (Md.) Red Cross Blood Bank, for credit to Morgan county.

Girl Scouts' Interest In Historical Marker Leads To Visit At Duncan Mansion

On Wednesday, January 22nd, the Regent of The Reverend James Caldwell Chapter D.A.R. was host to the members of the Green Fairies Patrol, Girl Scout Troop 31. The Scouts were entertained at the Governor Joseph Duncan D.A.R. Chapter House, 4 Duncan Place.

Mrs. Charles Vieira, leader, her assistants, Mrs. Fay Daniel, Mrs. Clarence Brummett, and Mrs. Fay Mentler, and fourteen Girl Scouts, met for an hour of "Duncan" information.

Miss Jeannette Powell was the speaker of the afternoon, bringing with her "Elizabeth Duncan" from her collection of dolls of outstanding women.

Miss Powell talked of Elizabeth Duncan, her personality, home, family, and their part in the social and political life of Jacksonville and Illinois.

At the conclusion of her talk, Miss Powell answered questions about the Duncan family and early Jacksonville.

At the close of the question period, Mrs. Drennan showed the girls and leaders through the house. The girls were particularly interested in a slipper of Mrs. Duncan's.

The card attached told of Mrs. Duncan's very small size, smaller than most of the girls in the Patrol. The Governor's bedroom, with its trundle and four-poster beds, was also of great interest.

Mrs. Drennan pointed out the "Plat" of early Jacksonville, showing the location of Elizabeth street, for it was this "Plat" which precipitated the Patrol's visit to the Duncan mansion. Several months ago, as the Regent was leaving the Chapter House, she found this group of Girl Scouts looking at the stone marker in front of the house, and stopped to speak to them. During the brief chat, she asked if they knew the location of Elizabeth street. She also asked if they had noticed the drive from West State street to the Duncan mansion formed the letter D. Finding the girls so interested in Duncan "lore," Mrs. Drennan offered to show them through the house at a future date.

Following the tour of the house, the group gathered in the dining room, around the Duncan table, for simple refreshments.

D.A.R. Encourages Interest

The aims of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution are: (1) the acquisition and protection of historical spots, and (2) the preservation of documents and relics, as well as perpetuating the memory of our Revolutionary ancestors. The Girl Scouts are to be congratulated for the interest of members in local history, outstanding personalities and spots in the community of historical value.

The Scouts visiting the Governor Duncan Home were Janet Brummett, Sharon Choate, Linda Covensy, Chris Daniel, Suzie Dowland, Judy Fay, Donna German, Margaret Ann Kiley, Mary Ellen Mills, Julie Jo Mentler, Patty Previtt, Carol Vieira, Sandra Donahue and Delyne Lamkular.

The Well Rounded Square

PALACES REVISITED

Carmina Burana. Secular Cantata by Carl Orff. The Hartford Symphony Orchestra. Choral and soloists. Vanguard VRS-1007, 438.

Have you ever wondered what happened to the old Palace Vaudeville Theatre Orchestra? Well, I have news this morning.

It is still in the pit, augmented now of course, more horns; more drums (wouldn't you know?) than in the old days; its musicians more mature and polished and its orchestrations more sophisticated; but it has never lost its zest and zing, nor its professional knack of playing a show.

Mr. Fritz Mahler conducts this music as if the acrobats would be on next, but they never come tumbling from the wings. Rather, the 25 acts presented on the record are performed by soloists and choruses in a program of authentic 13th century student songs set to music by the contemporary German composer Carl Orff.

Mr. Orff seems to baffle other music critics, but I see it right through him. It may be that it takes a square to catch a square. I figure Mr. Orff is having fun, and I know I am, and that's as rare a plane as can be found for a common meeting ground. But no doubt he has an intriguing accent and a solemn way about him that passes for an expression of genius, so up he goes on a pedestal. Then they wonder why they can't see him.

The songs, sung in Latin and German, are divided into three sets, Springtime, In The Tavern, and Courtship and Love. An English text is enclosed with the record in an envelope sumptuously decorated by a Rockwell Kent drawing.

The songs in manuscript were discovered in the Beuron monastery in Bavaria, hence the Burana in the title. I presume that Carmina is derived from the Latin carminare meaning, in my dictionary, gross humours being combed out like tangled wool—which should give you an idea of some of the lyrics. Bold, bawdy and belying.

Mr. Orff's fascination for the stage, all his works are written to be performed—speaks well for his aspirations even though he perhaps hasn't fully realized them; yet Carmina Burana, written in 1936, is indeed a very special piece of business.

I'd like to see it performed. It's a show I am sure I could see at least twice in my lifetime and thoroughly enjoy. I am just as certain that you will enjoy the record and play it for company occasionally, as I intend to do.

Mr. Orff's agents are missing a bet if they don't arrange a performance of Carmina Burana at Radio City Music Hall. And it's a natural for television, what with dancing girls and carousing students one minute, and the next just like Hil Pavyer, a lovely soprano singing tenderly of accepting the sweet yoke of love.

Morley Meredith, baritone, does The Abbot of Cockaigne with a comic clerical-voiced solemnity, and characterizes his other parts with ease.

Sylvia Stahlman, soprano, is as feminine and sweet as anyone could be confined to the upper registers—for Mr. Orff writes high for voice. Her Puccini-like aria comes oddly (and oddly satisfactorily) as the climax of the work before the rousing finale.

John Ferrante, tenor, has a high voice; high in the head. His Song of the Roasted Swan 'Now in the grave dish I lie, I cannot swim, I cannot fly, Nothing but gnashing teeth I spy.' Woe's me, 'tis properly painful.

Mr. Mahler and the Hartford Symphony and Choral deserve but raves for their crisp reading of the deceptively simple score. Mr. Orff, as if compensating for his lack of dissonance, makes up in modernity in some numbers by a variability in time signatures, a device which creates a pleasing tension, elsewhere through the work he lines out vigorous rhythms. All in all, a delight, like a good bill at the Palace, as we used to say.

Returns Home

Mrs. Ruth Bryant, who underwent a major operation at St. John's hospital, Springfield, a few weeks ago, and has been recuperating at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Weakley in Beason, returned to her home here this week. Her many friends hope her health will be very much improved in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Evans have returned home here, after being called to Shook, Ind., the fore part of the week by the death of the former's brother, George.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Adkins have received a birth announcement of a daughter, born to their grandson and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Randall Johnson, at San Diego, Calif., on Jan. 12. They have named the little Miss Mary Ellen, and her weight was seven pounds and 11 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fitzsimmons have received a birth announcement of a son born to Captain and Mrs. Wayne Fitzsimmons of Arlington, Va., and they have named the little lad Jeffrey Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwood Daniels and daughters, and Mrs. Daniels' parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mathy, have returned to their respective homes, after a few days visit in Fort Wayne, Ind., at the homes of the latter's sons, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mathy and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mathy and family.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Jones at St. John's hospital, Springfield, this week.

Washing a precious heirloom is unthinkable in some quarters. Most are afraid of ruining the fabric and losing an irreplaceable object. But dirt also damages heirlooms. Museum curators and fashion historians preserve costume collections by washing. The secret is gentle handling in suds and water.

Present Results Of Survey At Ashland

Presenting results of a six-weeks survey of the Ashland Methodist church Thursday are Dr. Richard D. Nesmith, left, and Rev. William Jones, right, of the Ashland church. They spoke to 40 Methodist ministers who were guests of MacMurray.

The value of church self-study, and its mechanics, was shown 40 Methodist ministers, Thursday afternoon at MacMurray College, when Dr. Richard D. Nesmith announced the results of his sociology class's study of the Ashland Methodist church.

With graphs, charts, and a 17-page mimeographed booklet, Dr. Nesmith described how the study helped achieve "a clearer understanding of some of the strengths and weaknesses in a church program." The six-week study was undertaken as a joint project by the MacMurray Sociology department and the official board of the Ashland Methodist church.

Rev. William Jones of the Ashland church assisted Dr. Nesmith in presenting a 10-point summation of the survey, conducted by the interview-questionnaire method of seven MacMurray students.

The church carried the expenses for printing, mimeographing, graph work, and a minor portion of transportation costs. Many of the ministers present indicated interest in starting such a study themselves, especially after hearing Rev. Jones describe that his Methodist men's group have decided to interest more young adults in the church. The study revealed, in its comparison of the age-sex structure of the church with that of the county and the community, that church interest is lacking on the part of young adults.

Rev. Jones also discovered, as a result of the study, that the lesser number of men in relation to women in the church constituency points to the need for a stronger approach to the men of the church. In addition, he found that a comparison of the age-sex structure of the church membership with the church school suggests a need for a review of the program for the adult division of the church school.

Before study results were presented, a map of the Ashland trade area was listed in the front of the booklet, locating the constituency of the Methodist church. This data was secured through interviews with local merchants who were asked to identify the customers of their customer area.

One of the results of this geographical approach was the finding that most who are members of the church also depend upon Ashland for trading purposes. The tabulation of the inventory reveals that 87% of the church members are employed in Ashland, while 92% make purchases there. This presents a stable focus of economic activities upon the community, making it easier for religious organizations to carry on a vital program.

An analysis of church income indicated a serious disproportion between the ability to give and the fact of giving, with only 1.44% of estimated income contributed. The over-all average per family unit, the study revealed, was slightly in excess of $50 per year.

Franklin Church Plans National Youth Sunday

FRANKLIN — National Youth Sunday is being observed Jan. 26 at the Christian church with the young people having charge of the morning service.

The youth choir presents two special numbers, "Awake" and "Pioneers, O Pioneers." The sermon, by the pastor, the Rev. Rod Rule, is on the subject "What Do You Mean, Juvenile Delinquency?"

Family Night of the Methodist church will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 29, with potluck supper at 6:30. The program will include a movie, "Bible on the Table." All friends of the church are invited to attend.

There will be a bake sale and bazaar at the Legion building on Saturday, Feb. 8, beginning at 9 a.m., sponsored by the Legion Auxiliary.

The Philathea class of the Methodist church held their annual Winter party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Seymour with Mrs. Ruth Ransom as assistant hostess. Members of the class entertained their husbands. A potluck supper featuring baked ham was enjoyed by all. Games were played and those winning prizes were Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rolston. Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rolston, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ramsey, Miss Hazel Ramsey, Mrs. Mary Hocking and Mrs. Leroy Sweet.

The M.Y.F. met with Norma Jewsbury at her home. The program opened with the group singing several songs followed by a business meeting. Jewsbury gave the lesson. The group played charades after which refreshments were served. The next meeting to be Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 7:00 at Joy Carpenter's home.

The Franklin Homemakers Circle has been postponed until Jan. 31. They are to meet at the country home of Mrs. Emma Calhoun.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Belk and family of East Alton and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Belk of Girard spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jean Belk.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (P)—Hog receipts at Chicago for a five-day week since last September and prices advanced as much as $1.25 until midweek. Heavy snow in the area was believed to be the cause of light arrivals which on Wednesday were the smallest for a midweek season in 10 years.

Wholesale meat prices also advanced until the end of the week when they dropped sharply. The top price of $21.40 was paid on Wednesday for sorted 210 lb butchers grading No. 1.

Sow offerings continued scarce and prices were bid up until Friday when they fell off. Cattle receipts were fully 10 per cent under last week's offerings, also because of snowfall, and prices were as much as $1.30 higher on choice and prime slaughter steers. Vealers held steady to strong throughout the week.

CHICAGO (P)—Following is a summary of the week's hog, cattle and sheep market:

Some sorted No. 1 210 lb butchers reached 21.40 and the average price of all barrows and gilts 20.39, both prices highest since September 1957. Most U.S. No. 2 and 3 190-230 lb weights 19.50-20.00, same grades 240-260 lbs 19.00-19.75 and 270-310 lbs 18.25-19.25. Sows 350-550 lbs 16.50-17.75. Salable cattle 200. Two loads average prime to high prime 1.200 and 1.300 lb steers 32.25-32.50, most high choice and prime steers 29.00-31.00; light and medium choice steers 25.50-28.75, standard average good steers 20.50-25.50; two loads high choice and prime around 100 lb heifers 28.75-29.00. The 29.00 top on heifers and the 32.50 top on steers highest since October 1956. Most choice heifers 26.00-28.00, standard and good grades 19.50-25.00; utility and low commercial bulls 18.00-20.00; good and choice vealers 27.00-32.00, standard 21.00-26.00.

Salable sheep 100. The week's top 26.75 paid for short deck of prime woolled lambs; bulk choice lambs 24.75-25.50; good grades 23.00-25.00; culls down to 17.00 good and choice wooled slaughter lambs 8.50-10.50, cull and utility 7.00-8.50.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (P)—The stock market managed to punch out its second straight weekly advance as the reins on the money market continued to loosen this week while business news remained drab.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.70 to $162.00. Strangely enough, the money-easing measures gave stock prices no solid, immediate boost. Wall Street has been demanding them and predicting them so long that the actual event was well anticipated.

As the week's trading neared its end on Friday, the market was just slightly above the previous week's close and it could very easily have ended the week with a loss. Late in the day, however, a rally sparked a rally which brought a late ticker tape and gave the market by far its best rise of the week, putting prices well ahead of the previous week's close.

The rally by stocks was prompted by news of higher prices for steel scrap in Chicago and Philadelphia. Although some sources said the rise in scrap prices was pretty artificial, showing no fundamental change in the steel industry picture, the news served as an excuse for a market rally of much greater proportions than that which accompanied news of much more importance earlier in the week. Other issues rose in sympathy with the steels.

On Monday, President Eisenhower in his economic message to Congress predicted that the business slump would end soon. The market rose a bit that day. It was off slightly on average the next day.

Hopes and promises of brighter days to come were counter-balanced by the harsh realities of today. The nation's No. 1 and No. 2 railroads, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central, respectively, provided bad fundamental news. The Central omitted dividend. The Pennsylvania's industrial cutbacks, layoffs and price reductions dampened sentiment.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

American Telephone, up 4 1/2 at 172 1/2; Royal Dutch, up 1 1/2 at 38 1/2; American Motors, up 1 1/2 at 9 1/2; Avco, up 3/4 at 7 1/2; and General Dynamics, off 2 1/2 at 61 1/2.

Major Leagues Vote To Postpone Action On Territorial Rights

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (P)—Baseball's major leagues Saturday voted to postpone action on territorial rights which under the recommendation of a four-man committee would have made all cities of two million or more population eligible for two clubs.

The action in a joint meeting called by each league had voted to turn down the recommendation which would have made possible two clubs in New York, Detroit, Philadelphia, Los Angeles as well as Chicago.

Commissioner Ford Frick declared he was not disappointed over the action since the door was left open for further consideration. The commissioner, who had expressed approval of the committee's plan, said he would officially recognize the transfer of the Giants to San Francisco and the Dodgers to Los Angeles as of Feb. 1.

The department of Agriculture reported that stocks of corn, soybeans and sorghum grains all were at record highs on Jan. 1. Stocks of all feed grains were reported at 138 million tons, a record level compared with 121 million tons a year earlier.

Stocks of corn were 3,599,986,000 bushels compared with the previous record of 3,417,813,000 bushels in 1956. Soybean stocks totaled 300,013,000 on Jan. 1, or 16 per cent more than at the same time a year ago.

Salable cattle 200. Two loads average prime to high prime 1.200 and 1.300 lb steers 32.25-32.50, most high choice and prime steers 29.00-31.00; light and medium choice steers 25.50-28.75, standard average good steers 20.50-25.50; two loads high choice and prime around 100 lb heifers 28.75-29.00. Tycoon Young Commits Suicide

Smallest Texan

Of small stature, 5 feet 6, and weighing 135 pounds, Young sometimes was dubbed "the smallest Texan in the world."

His slight build was combined with a soft voice and retiring manner but he tangled with financial tians, criticized long-established practices of carriers, and introduced his own innovations.

Young got into the railroad business in 1937 when he gained control of the Allegheny Corp., a holding company for railroad properties and real estate. The principal asset was the C&O, of which he became board chairman.

Goated Industry From that position he goaded the industry, sometimes with full-page newspaper advertisements. "A hog can cross the country without changing trains—but you can't," one ad proclaimed.

A short time later through-service was established by various combinations of roads but Young complained that a traveler's trip still was delayed several hours by switching operations in Chicago.

Rapped Bankers "Bankers, they're the trouble with a lot of railroads," he once fumed. "Bankers don't pretend to be industrial managers. What we need is more ownership interest in railroads. That's what made some of our biggest corporations great."

"I'm just a little boy from Texas trying to bring the public the kind of service it deserves and give the railroads back to the people," he said of his rail improvement program.

Once firmly established in Allegheny, Young set his sights on the New York Central, with its 10,714 miles of track and assets in excess of 2 1/2 billion dollars.

The assets included some of the most valuable real estate in the world, but the road also was heavily mortgaged. Its net bonded debt exceeded 500 million dollars, and it funded debt more than 800 million.

In his famous battle to gain control of the New York Central, Young had the help of two other fabulously wealthy Texans—Sid Williams Richardson and Clint W. Murchison Sr. This was in 1954.

Lifelong Cronies Richardson and Murchison, lifelong cronies, bought 800,000 shares of Central stock for 20 million dollars in order to vote the proxies for Young. And they did it with borrowed money—not using a cent of their own.

It was an involved transaction by which the 800,000 shares owned by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway of which Young formerly was president, came into possession of the pair.

The C&O had acquired the stock while Young was its president, but under a ruling by the Interstate Commerce Commission could not vote it in the election of the New York Central directorate.

Young detailed the transaction for a Senate Banking and Currency subcommittee in 1955. He said the Allegheny Corp., railroad holding company of which he was chairman, advanced the two Texas multimillionaires 7 1/2 million dollars, and that his friend, Allan P. Kirby, president of Allegheny, provided another five million.

The remaining 7 1/2 million Young said, came from a Midwestern banking syndicate. In other words, neither Mr. Richardson nor Mr. Richardson put up a dollar of their own money," asked the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY). Lehman added: "Actually they didn't risk anything."

"They gave their notes," Young retorted. "I don't know what else you can call risk. Their credit is good. This country, including the United States Treasury, is run on credit."

As explained by Young, Allegheny contracted to buy the stock from Murchison and Richardson at $25 a share, the same price they paid for it. The two guaranteed Allegheny against loss and paid 4 1/2 per cent interest on the money borrowed from Allegheny.

The contract called for an even split between Allegheny and the Texas' of any increase in value of the stock.

"Cleverest Deal" The stock did advance and Young declared the transaction wound up with everyone concerned making a profit. He called it "the cleverest deal in my financial history."

Richardson was in California on a vacation when Murchison telephoned him about Young's need for help in his proxy fight. In a hurry to get to a golf course, Richardson did not understand all the details before agreeing to go along. Time magazine said he called Murchison the next day.

"What the hell did you say was the name of this railroad?" he asked.

Sold Some Stock On Jan. 17, a report to the New York Stock Exchange disclosed Young had sold 27,000 shares of Central stock, reducing his holdings to 1,300 shares so far as the public record was concerned.

This would not include holdings of any of Young's various controlled companies, such as Allegheny, nor any stock he turned over to or sold to his wife for tax purposes in December.

It has been known definitely exactly how much Central stock Young owned or controlled, but at one time it at least totaled hundreds of thousands.

Born in Texas Young was born in Canadian, Tex., Feb. 14, 1897. Prophetically as a boy in the Texas Panhandle, he had the nickname "Railroad" because his initials were R.R.

Meat Expert Will Be Lions Club Speaker A highlight of the ladies night meeting of the Jacksonville Lions Club at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 29 will be an educational meat program conducted by Augie R. Ring, Chicago, meat expert with the National Live Stock and Meat Board. The meeting will be held at the Virginia Country Club.

Mr. Ring, Director of the Board's Merchandising Department, is nationally known as an authority on meat cuts, and his dexterity with a knife has been witnessed by millions of television viewers.

He will also put on a carving demonstration and will discuss the popular subject of outdoor meat cookery.

A top-level study of Soviet-U.S. relations is assured when Secretary of State Dulles gets back from the Baghdad Pact meeting at Ankara, Turkey, about Feb. 1. In this situation State Department leaders are unusually sensitive to every Soviet move. The Zarubin initiative in paying a farewell call on Nixon without even requesting to make a similar call on President Eisenhower is undergoing the most careful scrutiny.

Authorities think that Zarubin possibly sought to achieve several results by the conference which lasted for a little more than 40 minutes, including time consumed by translations.

These are the possible motives attributed to Zarubin: 1. He wanted to be able to make a first hand report to Bulganin, Gromyko, and others on Nixon's attitude toward Soviet-American relations. Such questions could be critical for the Moscow government at some future time.

2. Most of the Zarubin-Nixon conversation was concerned with Zarubin's advocacy of a long-standing Russian proposal for an exchange of visits between members of Congress and members of the Supreme Soviet.

They agreed that in general Board representatives. He will cover points to consider when buying meat, the correct steps in cooking meat, and the importance of meat in the diets of persons of all ages.

In his demonstration, Mr. Ring will show how several economical, appetizing and nutritious meals may be obtained from a variety of meat cuts, including pork loin, as well as darkening by dust.

Ike Visits Pentagon, Confers With Leaders

prior to the President's decision on defense reorganization. Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said he was "happy to note that the President at this time is taking a personal interest in the reorganization of the Pentagon as he indicated he would do in his State of the Union message."

Mansfield Comments "I hope he takes a close look at the extraordinary number of assistant secretaries of defense and assistants to the assistants who are cluttering up the Pentagon," Mansfield said.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate's Republican leader, said Eisenhower's action confirms earlier statements that the President is giving his attention to changes and will have concrete recommendations to make to Congress.

Without reference to Eisenhower's Pentagon visit, Knowland and Sen. Bridges (R-NH) voiced vigorous opposition to placing a single commander over the armed forces in the forthcoming reorganization.

Knowland said in an interview he is "not convinced that a single chief of staff is the answer to the problem" of speeding up the development of missiles and satellites.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said in a statement he is "opposed to concentrating the military strength of our country in the hands of one individual."

Eisenhower years ago advocated the single command idea in testimony before Congress but later dropped it in favor of compromise.

Strong support has developed in Congress for reshaping the duties of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who are charged with operating individual services as well as with overall military planning. They are presided over by a fourth member as chairman, who serves as chief military adviser to the secretary of defense.

Ike Changing Tactics On Return Of German Assets

WASHINGTON (P)—The Eisenhower administration apparently has abandoned the idea of seeking a direct appropriation of 151 million dollars to help finance return of German and Japanese assets seized during World War II.

Senior officials said the President still is undecided, despite strong opposition in Congress and elsewhere, to give at least partial compensation to prewar owners of these private properties as soon as possible.

Alternative plans are being considered by the State Department, and a detailed formula is expected to go to Capitol Hill within two weeks.

The plan reported finding great favor would: 1. Permit return of the cash equivalent of the properties on the basis of two thirds of their present value.

2. Finance this partly with U.S. tax payer's money in the treasury, possibly by using repayments of U.S. foreign aid loans to the two ex-enemy countries involved.

3. Allow prompt payment of between 100 and 200 million dollars in war damage claims by U.S. citizens against Germany and Japan.

4. Speedup liquidation of the seized assets. These properties—corporations, patents, real estate and the like—are valued at more than 500 million dollars. The biggest is the highly controversial 110 million dollar General All-American Film Corp.

Eisenhower announced last July 31 he would ask Congress this session "as a matter of priority" to settle the long-feuding issue. He promised a plan to compensate the former owners and pay all legitimate American claims.

Consternation broke among both those who oppose and those who favor return. As usual, the storm centered on the $475,223,000 in German assets. Japan

Secret Of Amazing Konrads Kids Is A Pair Of Outsize Hearts

By GORDON TAIT
SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The secret of the amazing Konrads kids—a sister and brother who have made international headlines with world record swimming performances—is a pair of outsize hearts.

Tests made on 13-year-old Lisa Konrads and her 15-year-old brother John show that their hearts are so big and strong that their endurance is far greater than normal.

Forbes Carlile, a noted coach, made tests of their hearts on his heartometer. This is an American invention which measures the power of the heart to supply the needs of the body.

Carlile's tests, made at the request of the Konrads' coach, Don Talbot, showed Lisa's heart has a rakishness to strain far greater than that of many men of 20. It can pump the blood through her body at a far greater rate than the heart of any other Australian woman swimmer whom Carlile has tested.

John's heart showed the same astounding endurance characteristics.

Heart, plus desire, plus unusual swimming ability have made the two Latvian-born kids the latest sensation of this swim-conscious nation.

"Before long they should completely dominate Australian swimming," said Carlile. Today that virtually means world swimming.

Lisa gained international notice 11 days ago when she finished a half mile behind Olympic champion and world record holder Lorraine Crapp, the queen of Australian swimming, in the 440-yard freestyle final of the new South Wales championships.

Two days later, the 5-foot, 5-inch, 110-pound girl cracked world headlines by smashing Lorraine's world records for 380 yards and 300 meters (about 857 yards) in her first competitive race over the half-mile distance. She was timed

Marshall Heads Nation In Scoring And Free Throws

NEW YORK (AP)—Marshall College's basketball players are the country's best free throw artists and next to the best shooters from the floor. So, naturally, they are the highest scoring team among major colleges.

The Huntington, W. Va. team boasts an average of 87.7 points in 12 games figures complete through last Monday showed Saturday. The statistics were released by the service bureau of the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Marshall, 84 this season, ranks first at the free line with a 78.5 per cent mark and stands second in field goal accuracy with a 47.7 per cent record.

The Big Green jumped ahead of Cincinnati, last week's scoring average leader. The Bearcats average, dipped to 86.6. Cincinnati held the team free throw lead with 48.6 per cent accuracy.

The individual scoring race, remained a virtual tie between Cincinnati's sophomore Oscar Robertson (545 points in 14 games for a 32.5 average) and Kansas' 7-foot, 170-pounder, Wilt Chamberlain, (389-12-32.4). The figures are complete through Friday.

The team defensive race also was a close struggle. San Francisco led the country, allowing opponents to score an average of 42.2 points a game. Oklahoma State allowed 49.7 points.

Significant changes in the individual scoring race were made by Pittsburgh's Don Hennon who bounced from seventh to fourth with a 26-point average; and Kentucky Wesleyan's Kelly Coleman, who advanced from 15th to 12th with a 24.3 average.

Individual leaders in other departments included:

Field goal percentage: Ralph Crosswhite, Western Kentucky 106 for 166, 63.9; free throw percentage: Joe Hobbs, Florida, 61 for 66, 90.7; rebound percentage: All Innes, St. Francis, N.Y., 236 of 359, 27.5.

Karl Schlademann, Michigan State's track coach since 1941, first entered the coaching profession in 1911 following graduation from DePauw University, of 359, 27.5.

GARMISCH, PERTENKIRCH, EN, Germany (AP)—Austria's No. 1 team of Paula Aste and Hans Mayr, who led the team to the lead at the world mark Saturday in the world two-man bobsled championships with the American team well down the list.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Springfield high downed Champaign 54-47 for the fifth win in Big 12 loop play and Coach Ray Page's Solons are the only conference team unbeaten this season.

Peoria Central and Bloomington shared the conference title last year but are not contenders this time out with several defeats. Pekin's Chinks of Coach Bob Cain, former Lanphier star athlete, might be the dark horse as only Danville beat the Tazewell County five 51-45 earlier in the season. Wendell Anglin, five 5-11, counted forward for Coach Art Mathisen's Danville Maroons, will be too old for competition next month as he reaches his 20th birthday. He was a standout against Jacksonville high in the opening round of the Kankakee high Holiday tourney before fouling out of that one.

Cuba was upset by Astoria's Pirates in the opening round of the Fulton County tourney at Farmington. Cuba is leading the Olympic conference basketball race and was favored to play Farmington's Farmers in the championship game. Jacksonville high has fattened their win column this season against Decatur high teams. The Jacks are defending champs in the Central cage race and won the track and field laurels last spring for the first time.

East Pike (Millon) received the Sportsmanship award at the 36th annual Winchester tourney while Mr. Sterling won the cheer leading trophy. Coach Dick Garner of LeRoy high has resigned effective at the end of the present school term and he served the last eight years as coach at Hardin high. His 1937 Hardin five won the Carrollton Regional meet and lost to Springfield in the sectional tourney. His wife presented him with a son, first child, born at Bloomington Jan. 16 and Mrs. Garner is the former Dorothy Fisher of New Canton.

East Pike (Millon) staged their first Homecoming Saturday night against the Payson high five. The state cage finals will be on TV on March 21 and 22 as Albert Willis, executive secretary of the Illinois high school association has announced that a TV network will again carry the games at Champaign. This is the seventh year the tourney finals will be staged before TV cameras. Sponsor of the broadcast will be Illinois Bell Telephone Company, who originated the basketball telecast in 1932.

Lanphier high of Springfield won the City Tourney last week for the fourth consecutive year and Coach Arlyn Lober's Lions are ineligible for the Central loop basketball title this season as Lakeview and Lanphier could not get a game scheduled for the second consecutive year. Jim Dudley, former star at Farmington high, will be in the starting lineup for Lake Forest College at Illinois Wesleyan U. Feb. 12. David Jacobs, another Farmington high standout in basketball, was named on the Quincy College Holiday tourney first team playing for Lake Forest.

West Rockford's Warriors, Elgin's Maroons and East Rockford's E-Rabs are tied for the lead in the Big Eight loop cage race. Carlville is leading the South Central while Macomb high is the top team in the Mid-West loop campaign after Rushville beat Havana last week. Taylorville, Shelbyville and Litchfield are deadlocked for the top spot in the Mid-State conference while Collinsville is the leading team in the tough Southwestern conference. Clinton's Maroons are leading the Corn Belt conference while Jacksonville high is the leader in the Central loop race. Springfield high is the top team in the Big 12 loop, one of the toughest in the entire state.

Some 150 delegates also approved a handicap system for women based on the new handicapping of men players. The USGA Women's competitions in 1938 must be computed under the new formula, based on the 10 best of the last 25 scores, and the women's course rating methods used previously.

Chicagoan John D. Ames was elected USGA president for 1938, succeeding Richard S. Tuttle of Pinckney, N. C. The next annual meeting will be held at New York Jan. 31, 1939.

Bill Post of Schurz (Chicago) is anxious to play a few games downstate next season and he formerly coached at Tilden Tech (Chicago) when John Kerr was his star performer. Champion high will play at Belleville for the first time next month and the Maroons might be the favorite in this one.

'H-ad Coach' Lettering All That Remains On Myers' Door At Iowa

By JACK DONOVAN

AMES, Iowa (AP)—The lettering on the door read "Head Coach"—only the "e" had been carefully scratched away.

Behind the door was an empty desk. Against one wall a 400 pound black ball and chain—momento of a happier day—reposed.

The room had been occupied for 12 months and 4 days by Jim Myers, a youthful football coach with tremendous desire.

His controversial departure last Wednesday from the Iowa State College head coaching job for a similar position (along with the Athletic directorship) at Texas A&M has met with considerable criticism.

Only 10 days before he accepted the second A & M offer Myers had rebuffed the Texas institution when it appeared it wanted a bigger name.

A month before that Myers had turned down the University of Arkansas, which then was seeking a football coach. At that time members of the Des Moines Cyclone club playfully attached the ball and chain to his leg.

Myers, stern jawed and bearing a patch of silver in his black hair, believes opportunity rings, instead of knocks.

The ringing is the telephone, an instrument Myers has learned all ways to keep within arms reach.

It was on Jan. 18, 1937 that the telephone rang while the 36-year-old former UCLA coach was at the Allondra Golf Course in Los Angeles.

Iowa State was calling and it wanted Jim to become the Cyclones' 21st head football coach. He agreed. It was his first head coaching assignment.

Almost a year to the day later Jim received another phone call, gave another affirmative reply, and quickly packed his bags for Texas A & M.

He is not accustomed to being associated with losing football teams. The 4-5-1 record his team compiled here last fall was one of the few losing seasons in his career.

"I don't believe football games are won by systems, but by individuals and fundamentals," Myers says. "Any team has to have a certain amount of good horses," he adds.

Myers doesn't seem stern but you get the idea he can be. He doesn't smoke nor drink coffee or tea. He keeps his weight down to just six pounds over the 190 he carried in college by playing handball, golf and weight lifting.

Labeled by some Iowans as a "turncoat" for recanting on his promise to stay, Myers says: "I can't let the public live my life for me. I don't intend to do that any place."

USGA Adopts New Rule Hitting Purse Splitting By Pros In Tourneys

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States Golf Assn., at its annual meeting, acted Saturday to prevent pre-arranged "prize-splitting" by pros in its two National Open tourneys.

Probably hitting at a reported pot-splitting of the big $50,000 first prize in last year's "World" tourney at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter, the USGA adopted this rule:

"A new condition of entry into the Open and the Women's Open championships will require professionals to certify that they have not entered into and will not enter into any arrangement whereby any competitor could have a financial interest in any other competitor's prize money."

Although this practice has not been mentioned in connection with the U. S. Open which carries more prestige than cash, the new rule presumably stemmed from 1937 Open champion Dick Mayer's victory in the "World" meet at Tam.

After the "World," Mayer's wife told a reporter that her husband had agreed to pay fellow pro Al Bessellink $5,000 from his purse, if he won. If Bessellink had won, he would have paid Mayer $5,000.

Splitting first and second money—in playoffs—is regarded a common practice for tournament titles, for obvious economical reasons.

Also, the practice is known to exist whereby "partners" agree—before a meet—to split top money.

There was no penalty mentioned in connection with the rule, but the inference was that any guilty parties would not be welcome to future Open tourneys.

The new rule may have been aimed at removing any pot-splitting temptations at the 1938 U.S. Open which will carry a record $35,000 prize list, including $8,000 for first place. The open will be played June 12-13-14 at Southern Hills Country Club, Tulsa, Okla.

Some 150 delegates also approved a handicap system for women based on the new handicapping of men players.

The USGA Women's competitions in 1938 must be computed under the new formula, based on the 10 best of the last 25 scores, and the women's course rating methods used previously.

Chicagoan John D. Ames was elected USGA president for 1938, succeeding Richard S. Tuttle of Pinckney, N. C. The next annual meeting will be held at New York Jan. 31, 1939.

Bill Post of Schurz (Chicago) is anxious to play a few games downstate next season and he formerly coached at Tilden Tech (Chicago) when John Kerr was his star performer. Champion high will play at Belleville for the first time next month and the Maroons might be the favorite in this one.

'Family Night' is the theme being stressed by the Jacksonville Jaycees in their windup campaign for the 1958 March of Dimes next Saturday night, Feb. 1, at the Illinois College gymnasium. The Jaycees will present a double-header basketball program for a very worthy cause—to help whip polio. All the proceeds go to the March of Dimes to help conquer one of the nation's most dreaded diseases. At 7:30, the Jacksonville Junior Woman's Club will match its skills against Bluffs Junior Woman's Club and the local Kiwanis and Lions square off against each other around 8:30 p.m.

Jim Welsh will have his prep 'Pep Band' on hand to help entertain also. Admission for adults is 75 cents and children 25 cents. Player-coach for the Kiwanis is Art Yates of I.S.D. and Willard Cody and Don Painter are assisting the rugged Lion aggregation for the big game. Jim Spink and Sam were, both of I.S.D., are tutoring the local women's quintet, undefeated in two outings. Floyd Sorrell, a hook-shot artist, may start at center for the Lions. The Elm City Cafe proprietor is expected to be a tower of strength for the Lions. Get the family together now and plan on attending Saturday night's twin-bill. The teams will play six-minute quarters. The shorter quarters will allow you to get home earlier to put the kids to bed. Hats off to the Jaycees for giving us a chance to help lick polio with our contributions and to see two basketball games at the same time.

SeeBee's pen finds the likeness of Jim Spink this week in our character illustration. Spink's Tigers are the host five for the PMBC Conference. Tournament this week and we thought the ISD mentor, in his seventh season at the westend plant, should be our honored guest. Thanks to Mrs. Harriett Spink for helping us collect the needed data on her husband and to five-year-old Mark for not telling his daddy. Jim's coaching career has been as illustrious as his athletic days when he was performing for Jacksonville High and Illinois College.

Here's the way it was in the beginning. On July 25, 1927, Mrs. Earl M. Spink gave birth to a set of twins, James Earl and Samuel, to enlarge the Spink household to six children. Jim attended Lafayette grade school and David Prince and became a member of the 1945 graduating class when he entered Jacksonville High. Spink played varsity ball all four years in football, basketball and track. In football he played tackle and backfield. Sam played the other tackle slot and the Spink twins were noted for their rugged but

Dave Sime Beats Murchinson In Sprint Series

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dave Sime, Duke's speedy redhead, whipped Ira Murchinson of Western Michigan in two of three events for the victory he wanted in the Evening Star games sprint series Saturday night.

Sime, stretching his long legs at a terrific pace over the District of Columbia Armory's boards, set a world record of 7.8 seconds in the 80-yard dash. Then he came back for a 9.7 triumph in the 100—two-tenths of a second off the world mark he rang up here two years ago.

Murchinson had edged Sime by inches in taking the 70-yard race in 8.1 seconds. But in the 80 Sime won by a foot and in the climactic 100 was a yard in front when he split the red string at the finish.

The Sime-Murchinson duel, which promises to blaze through the indoor season, took the spotlight off the usually featured mile which George King of the New York A. C. won in 4:13.6 on the flat track.

King moved up slowly over the eight-lap event and took the lead with about 3-10ths of a mile remaining. He beat out Jim Beatty of St. Jackson by 19 yards. Velma Mueen of Yugoslavia was third and Bob Byr of Sonoma, U.C.L.A. fourth.

MSU Spartans Take 2nd Game Of Season From Northwestern

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State, led by lanky John Green, moved up to a challenging position in the Big Ten basketball scramble Saturday night with its second win of the season over Northwestern, this time by a 74-60 score.

Michigan State now has a 3-2 conference record while Northwestern dropped down with a 2-3 record, including an 83-78 loss to the Spartans just a week ago.

Green, top rebounder in the Big Ten, out-jumped Joe Ruklock although his 6 feet, 5 inches was four inches shorter than the height of the Northwestern star.

Green also was tops in scoring for his team with 22 points. Ruklock was held to 11 points before he went out on five fouls with 6:47 remaining to play in the game.

High man for Northwestern was Nick Mantie with 24 points.

Annual PMBC Conference Tourney Opens At ISD Monday

Asst. Coach Jim Bond

Mt. Sterling Ranked 1st, Arenzville 2nd, Finals Friday Night

By Stan Spotts

Mt. Sterling's Brown County High Hornets, last year's PMBC loop champions, also defend their title in the forthcoming PMBC Conference Tournament at the Illinois School for Deaf gymnasium this week. Two games a night, starting Monday and ending Friday, are on tap.

Game times for each evening will be 7 and 8:30 p.m. except for the finals Friday night which finds the consolation contest starting at 7:30 and the championship tilt at 9:00 p.m.

Mt. Sterling brought home the tourney crown from Champaign last year and has been picked by the coaches to walk off with top honors again this season although they lost to Arenzville, rated 2nd, in the Winchester Invitational, 84-73, several weeks ago.

BROADCAST TIMES
Barney Lewis and Jerry Cassens will be at mikeside for each game throughout the tournament with their WLDS Sports On Parade broadcast. The PM feature will come on the air five minutes before each opening game, 6:55 and 7:25 on Friday night.

Three trophies will be awarded to the top three clubs following the championship game. A team sportsmanship trophy will also be awarded. Last year, Virginia finished second, Arenzville was third and Bluffs won the sportsmanship award in the annual 10-team tournament.

Ralph Hanauer, Herb Scheffler, of Springfield and Walt Tamblin and Jerry Sullivan of New Berlin are the officials assigned to work the tourney.

There will be no reserved seats for the tourney. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The gymnasium doors will open at 5:45 p.m. on Monday through Thursday and at 6 p.m. Friday night.

Mt. Sterling carries a season's record of 12 wins, 4 losses into the tourney, surpassed only by Arenzville's impressive mark of 15 wins and two setbacks. Don Kemp's Raiders will probably upset the coaches' picks as Arenzville has sparkplug Gary Nelson, one of the finest prospects to perform around this area in many a moon, guiding the Raider attack.

The Raiders engage Routt in the second game Tuesday evening, a team they beat last Tuesday night, 59-48. Although he didn't get one good open shot from the defense the Rockets threw around him, Nelson still managed to collect 35 points.

The Hornets bowed to Arenzville in the fourth quarter of their consolation battle in Winchester's 26th annual tourney. Both clubs are undefeated in PMBC competition with perfect 7-0 records.

Virginia, picked third, has an eight win, seven loss mark for the year and are 3-3 in the last standings. Jim Spink's Tigers bow to Mt. Sterling Friday in an overtime, 75-74, and the host five are picked to finish fourth. ISD has won six and lost eight during the campaign. The loss to the Hornets Friday was the first for the Tigers in five PMBC tests.

Bob Winstead's sixth-seeded Rockets are 5-11 for the season and 4-3 in the conference standings. Here's the way the coaches have tabbed the teams:

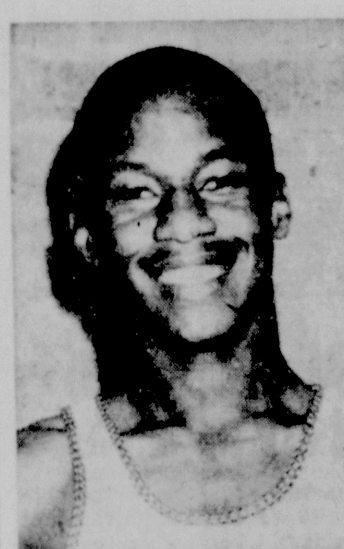

NO GOPHERS OFF DON
MILWAUKEE (7) — Don McMahon, pitching 47 relief innings for the world champion Milwaukee Braves last season, failed to yield a home run. He gave up 33 hits and eight earned runs. He struck out 46 and had a 1.53 earned run record.

Sub Paces Iowa To 73-71 Loop Win Over Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A pressure-shooting Clarence Wordlaw, a bench rider in the first half, rallied Iowa to a 73-71 victory over Minnesota in a televised Big Ten basketball thriller Saturday.

The 6-2 Chicago junior pumped in seven field goals in 11 tries, most of them from long range, and added a free throw for 15 points in the final 20 minutes to nullify a brilliant two-man show by Minnesota's Ron Johnson and George Kline.

Iowa hit a blistering 51 per cent of its shots from the field in handling Minnesota's first home court defeat of the season.

Johnson hit 30 points and Kline 25 but Wordlaw's deadly blasting gave Iowa the edge in a tinging teeter-totter game which saw the lead change hands 16 times.

It ended wildly for the Williams arena crowd of 7,646 when Minnesota's Jerry Rodgers stole the ball and dribbled to the free throw circle to fire a last-gasp shot in an effort to tie the score with one second left. The ball skidded off the rim.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Knicks took the lead on Richie Guerin's three-point shot in the opening minutes and held it the rest of the way to defeat the Minneapolis Lakers 128-116 Saturday and move back into third place in the eastern division of the National Basketball Assn.

Guerin's basket and free throw came with 30 seconds gone and shot the Knicks into a 5-2 lead. They increased the margin to 11 points near the end of the first half and to 29 early in the fourth quarter.

Some 2,500 fans in the 60th Regiment Armory witnessed the nationally televised game in which the Lakers, except for Bob Leonard, turned in a listless performance to drop deeper into the Western Division basement.

JULIAN IS A FAMILY COACH
NEW YORK (AP)—When Dartmouth basketball coach Duggie Julian motioned his charges to call a time out with only five seconds remaining against Columbia, spectators were surprised. Dartmouth led by 82-60.

"I hoped," explained Julian after the game, "to set up a play so one of my boys could score. His family was watching the game."

The play never came off.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—An angle almost totally overlooked in the new optional one or two-point bonus after touchdown is the pressure it puts on college coaches in close games.

Say a team playing for the conference championship is trailing seven points with time running out. A touchdown is scored and the head man faces a tremendous decision. A successful kick from 21 yards out will tie. Rushing or passing the ball across the goal line will win.

"I will quickly lead our section of the crowd," comments Art Guepe of Vanderbilt, "before making that decision. That's the only way for a coach to keep his head out of the noose."

It will be recalled that Forest Evashevski was severely criticized last autumn when Iowa killed the clock after tying the score rather than risk having fleet Jim Pace of Michigan get his hands on the ball.

And the new rule makes kicking the point after touchdown much easier despite the fact that the ball is to be put in play three yards from the goal line instead of one. Because of the threat of the run or pass there must be a normal standard defense, taking considerably heat off the kicker.

College rulemakers should return the posts to the goal line without delay.

The professionals changed the dimension of the game with this simple move. With the score calling for the attempt and anywhere around the enemy's 40-yard line on the fourth down, fellows like Lou Groza of the Browns, the Giants' Ben Agajanian and the Lions' Jim Martin go for the long and spectacular field goal.

This is so important that the Giants carry the veteran Agajanian for no other purpose.

This is where little fellows who became place-kicking specialists in college get a bad break. The manpower situation rarely permits a money club the luxury of a lad who can do nothing else. That was the story of Tad Weed, Ohio State's 5-5, 128-pound phenomenon of several years ago who went to the Steelers. In one streak in practice, young Weed kicked 810 straight field goals.

Many coaches contend that most any youngster could develop into an accurate field goal kicker with diligent practice. Yet college games continue to be lost by the margin of the point after touchdown.

The first change in the scoring rules in memory opens the way for some interesting possibilities—handicapping the stronger teams, for example. This could be done by a penalty box as in hockey or by making the combatants carry packs on their back or weight in the shoes.

Some argue that the new rule will take much of what little foot is left in college football out of it. But, as Otis Wile of Oklahoma State points out, this is merely the argument of reactionaries.

The foot will never be out of college football as long as ardent alumni retain the power to give the coach the boot.

Venturi Leads Third Round At Thunderbird Meet

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Young Ken Venturi unloaded another barrage of birdie—making shots Saturday and took the lead in the third round of the $15,000 Thunderbird invitational golf tournament.

The 26-year-old former amateur star from San Francisco shot a 5-under-par 33-33-66 over the Thunderbird Country Club's par 36-35-71 course, and posted a 54-hole total of 199. This is 14 strokes under par for the distance.

Four strokes back was Gene Littler, who moved into challenge with a 65 for a total of 203. Tied at 204 were Jimmy Demaret of Klamath Lake, N. Y., who started the round tied with Venturi for the lead, and Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass. Demaret had a 71 and Harney a 62.

Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, with a 69, and Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill., with a 68, were deadlocked at 205. One stroke back of them were U. S. Open Champ Dick Mayer, Newport Beach, Calif.; former National Open champion Julius Boros, Mid-Pines, N. C.; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., and Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex.

Second place is held by Bill Casper, Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., who has won $6,200.

B.S.S.S. Warriors Beat Greenville And Indiana Over Weekend

Coach Sy Hallizer's wrestling warriors bounced atop the victory again. The B.S.S.S. grapplers availed to Greenville Friday night and trounced their hosts, 1-13. It was a decisive victory for the east-siders; the Warriors were not and couldn't be stopped. A meet held in the local gymnasium Saturday the Braille and Sight Readers did it again when they won by a 31-18 score over the Indiana School for the Blind. The winners built up their season's record to 8 wins, overshadowed by 5 setbacks.

At Greenville each team had a weight class to even the card. The locals took control of the meet right from the start by winning the first seven matches. The Warriors then dropped two and won by a pin in the final, Jim Chappell added the finishing touch when he pinned 175 lb. opponent in one minute fifteen seconds. Only two other matches were decided by falls.

All events were close all the way. The Warriors displayed fine form and wise thinking in winning all of their matches.

In making its double sweep, B.S.S.S. won three matches in hand via pins to turn down the looser opponents. Prior to getting the falls, the local squad was behind in team score 13-11. Co-apt. Gene Schmidt gained the last fall when he downed his man in a rapid fifty-seven seconds. The next Hoosier fell victim to B.S.S.S.'s 145 lb. Richard Massa today in the first period. In the match that followed, the local's newly elected co-captain, Richard Krzyzek, set a torrid pace as he pinned his adversary in six seconds of the second period.

The Warriors looked good in making these meets and are building up steam for their conference tourney February 7 and 8. B.S.S.S. will have two more outings before the big ten school meet at home when the Warriors are a strong squad from Vandalia, a Tuesday afternoon at the local 3PM.

Downey, Streit Enter Women's Golf Finals

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, a 1952 finalist, and Marlene Stewart of Fort Hills, Ont., played their way Saturday into finals of the Helen Lee Doherty Women's Amateur Golf tourney.

Miss Downey conquered Nan Berry of Quincy, Ill., 3 and 2 when the 17-year-old Illinois contender teed off into a trap for a bogey 5 on the 16th hole.

Mrs. Streit eliminated Dot Kirby, 2 and 1, when the Atlantian missed a seven-foot clutch putt on the 17th and halved the hole instead of winning it.

Miss Downey and Mrs. Streit tee off Sunday at 9 a.m. (EST). The Baltimore girl was 1-70 at the turn of her 18-hole semifinal round but Miss Berry squared the count on the par 5 11th hole when Miss Downey topped two shots and took a double bogey 7. On the par 3 12th, Miss Downey took only two putts while Miss Berry three-putted and lost the hole. The Illinois golfer pulled up even again on the 13th as her opponent missed an eight-footer.

Miss Downey regained the lead on the 14th with a par four while Miss Berry's drive landed among trees and she wound up with a bogey. On the 16th, Nancy teed into a trap, chipped out poorly and missed a 10-foot putt, taking a bogey 4 that ended the match.

NO GOPHERS OFF DON
MILWAUKEE (7) — Don McMahon, pitching 47 relief innings for the world champion Milwaukee Braves last season, failed to yield a home run. He gave up 33 hits and eight earned runs. He struck out 46 and had a 1.53 earned run record.

The Hornets bowed to Arenzville in the fourth quarter of their consolation battle in Winchester's 26th annual tourney. Both clubs are undefeated in PMBC competition with perfect 7-0 records.

Virginia, picked third, has an eight win, seven loss mark for the year and are 3-3 in the last standings. Jim Spink's Tigers bow to Mt. Sterling Friday in an overtime, 75-74, and the host five are picked to finish fourth. ISD has won six and lost eight during the campaign. The loss to the Hornets Friday was the first for the Tigers in five PMBC tests.

Bob Winstead's sixth-seeded Rockets are 5-11 for the season and 4-3 in the conference standings. Here's the way the coaches have tabbed the teams:

W. Frankfort, E-Rabs, Rock Island Bowled Over In Prep Upsets

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The three highest ranked downstate teams in Illinois high school basketball—West Frankfort, Rock Island and East Rockford—were bowled over in Friday night upsets.

Canton, rated 11th, also took a spill.

Strong showings were made by Herrin, Rock Falls, Pekin, Notre Dame of Quincy, Marmion of Aurora, Proviso of Maywood, Collinsville and Jacksonville. All are ranked among the 15 best.

Herrin avenged a Jan. 3 loss to West Frankfort that helped push Herrin of its former top ranking. Now fourth-ranked, Herrin smacked down the No. 1 West Frankfort out in a 65-52 opener to the loser's blind draw tourney.

Both teams have lost two games. The role of avenger also fitted Moline as it handed Rock Island a 44-43 loss, only the second for the Rocks this season. Moline bowed to Rock Island by a 10-point margin in December. The Rocks are rated second best in the state.

LaSalle-Peru pulled a surprise on East Rockford, the No. 3 team, which only a week ago suffered a first defeat—to Elgin. A loser in its last three games, LaSalle-Peru beat East 59-53.

A hustling Galesburg quintet added Canton to its list of victims, 70-49. It was Canton's third defeat. Galesburg has won five in a row.

Rock Falls whipped Geneseo 92-48. Pekin beat Champaign 68-44. Notre Dame whipped Lincoln of East St. Louis 67-65. Marmion beat Elmwood Park 68-59. Proviso defeated New Trier of Winnetka 59-52. Collinsville smashed Granite City 77-49 and Jacksonville turned back Eisenhower of Decatur 66-51.

A rash of 100-point scoring developed, especially in the south-western area. Edwardsville collected a 101-67 verdict from Greenville. Madison defeated Robinson 105-71. Dixon outpointed Sterling 102 to 84 and Porman shattered San Jose 100-42.

JHS FRESHMEN STAGE ANNUAL TOURNEY SATURDAY AFTERNOON, EVENING

Al Rosenberger's Jacksonville High Freshmen put their title on the line this coming Saturday when they play host to three clubs in the 5th annual JHS Freshmen basketball tournament at the JHS Bowl.

The host quintet has captured the tourney crown for the past three years and are solid favorites to repeat as champs this Saturday. Feitshans won the title the first year the tourney was staged. Pictured above from left to right, front row, coach Al Rosenberger, Erland Thady, Gary Spangenberg, Bill Stanford, Chip Baldwin, Larry Smith, Jack McCarty, Charles Black, Gordon Heaton and manager Sammy White. Back row, Howard Curtis, Richard Sweeney, Kenny Norton, Jack Ricks, Dan McBride, Rick Winn, Joey Wells, Bill Hull and Ron Tomhave. 3rd row, manager Dean Low.

The teams entered in the meet don't schedule each other during the season and its usually a tossup as to who will walk off with the title. Last year, Jacksonville sneaked past ISD in the finals, a mild upset considering the fact that the underclassmen had had one of their poorest seasons since Rosenberger took over the freshmen team.

No admission is charged for the tourney and there are no trophy awards presented. Ernie Savage, Vic Mosley and Joe Shanahan are the officials assigned to work the one-day playoff.

John N. Baker Writes Public Relations Book

A book entitled "Your Public Relations Are Showing!" written by John Newton Baker, Assistant to the President, MacMurray College, has been accepted for publication in the spring of 1958 by Twayne Publishers, Inc., New York City.

Governor LeRoy Collins of Florida will write the foreword for the book, which covers a wide variety of public relations subjects. The book, written for popular use rather than as a textbook, will have 18 chapters, including one entitled "101 Tested Techniques in Public Relations."

The book indicated that there are now 102 children from the Mound attending Lincoln school and 134 are expected next year. Total enrollment in the school excluding the room for physically handicapped is 294. This will become 326 next year.

One special education room was moved to Jefferson last fall and two small rooms intended for a library and a nurse's room were thrown together to provide a classroom for 18 children. Even with these arrangements some classrooms have 36 children in them.

Two alternatives were presented as a solution for next year. One, transfer about 65 children to other schools, and two, build at least three classrooms at Lincoln. Either plan will be a temporary arrangement if the Mound area continues to grow.

A questionnaire was distributed to be returned at a later date.

George Colwell Death Due To Coronary Attack, Jury Determines At Inquest

A coronor's inquest held yesterday at the Williamson funeral home, into the death of George Colwell, 69, lifetime resident of the Alexander community, found the cause of death to be a coronary occlusion. He was found Friday night about 9 o'clock on the outskirts of Alexander in a shallow creek about 100 yards from the Alexander-Franklin block road. The body was discovered by Terry Judd and Frank R. Colwell, climaxing a search of more than five hours.

The deceased had lived in a rooming house operated by Mrs. Margaret Hartzell for the past 35 years. She told Coroner E. O. Sample that "it wasn't uncommon for Mr. Colwell to be away overnight," and that she did not become alarmed until about 4 p.m. Friday, when she called his nephew. Several residents of Alexander then started a search of the farm belonging to the deceased, then expanded to include the general area.

Mr. Colwell was last seen alive Thursday noon at a restaurant in Alexander where he ate lunch.

He is believed to have suffered a heart attack while cutting tall weeds and brush along the creek, falling backwards into the water. The lower portion of the body was under water when found. Freshly cut weeds and brush attracted the attention of the search party.

A post mortem examination was performed by Dr. Hugh A. McKinley establishing the principal cause of death as a coronary occlusion.

Friends may call at the Williamson funeral home Sunday evening between 7 and 9 p.m.

The body was taken to the Williamson funeral home.

Over 100 Attend Past Officers Night Jan. 23

Over 100 members and visitors attended the annual Past Officers night of Wilbur Chapter No. 358, Order of the Eastern Star, held Thursday night, Jan. 23, in the chapter room at the Masonic Temple. Past matron, Edith Landreth, and past patron, Clyde Landreth, served as guest worthy matron and worthy patron.

Other past matrons and past patrons who filled stations were: Irlene Summers, associate matron; Marion Summers, associate patron; Fern Haik, secretary; Marian May, treasurer; Martha McNeil, conductress; Martha Brunk, associate conductress; Dorothy Chumley, chaplain; Bess Lee Ehrhart, marshal; Inez Canasey, organist; Mary Carey, Adah; Minnie Hitt, Ruth; Josephine Muckelston, Esther; Leah Caldwell, Martha; Evelyn Baldwin, Electa; Martha June Svob, warder; Edw. Chumley, sentinel; John May, color bearer; Nan Milburn, soloist.

After the guest officers took their places guests of honor Lillian and Glenn Heidinger were escorted to the East. Soloist, Nan Milburn, sang an appropriate number dedicated to the guests of honor. Later, during the meeting, she sang special selections for the occasion and dedicated to all the past officers.

During the meeting the guests in the East made a few well chosen remarks on the ideals of Eastern Star. The usual routine business was conducted by the worthy matron, Vera Kinnett.

After the close of the meeting in the chapter room, all were invited to the dining room for a social hour. Refreshments were served at tables decorated with the five colors of the star.

Place cards were on the tables for the past officers. Worthy matron Vera Kinnett presented each past matron and patron a small potted plant which was placed on the table with the place card.

Inez Canasey, who served as worthy matron in 1911, was honored by being presented the centerpiece from the officers' table.

Vera Kinnett introduced Mrs. Rosalind Heitzman, Beardstown, whose original program entitled "Cartoon Recitals" added a gay and colorful note to the evening's entertainment. After telling the story of Tchikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," Mrs. Heitzman illustrated her interpretation of the characters involved through colored chalk drawings to the accompaniment of recorded music.

"Illustrations" included in the "Nutcracker Suite" were: "The Dance of the Sugar Plums," "The Russian Dance," "The Arabian Dance," "The Chinese Dance," "Dance of the Millions," and "Waltz of the Flowers," also Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2."

The following committees assisted with the plans and preparations for the evening. The refreshment committee was Margaret Birdsall, chairman; Shirley Stallings, Lorraine Farrell, Mildred Ahlquist, Dorothea Trotter, Dorothy Coultas, Milton Birdsall and Rollyn Trotter.

The decorating committee included Mary Buck, chairman; Doris DeShara, Edith Guthrie, Bernadine DeFries and Dorothy Buchanan.

Three Pilots Die As Jets Crash

FUCHU, Japan, Sunday (AP)—Three U. S. Air Force jet trainers crashed into the sea off western Japan Saturday after their engines flamed out, or failed, almost simultaneously.

Air Force search parties Sunday recovered one body. Search was continuing for the other two victims. Their names were withheld.

The Air Force said the three jets had just taken off from Iwakuni air base on a training flight to Yokota air base near Tokyo.

Aviation experts in Washington described such simultaneous flameouts as rare. They said such a thing might be caused by icing conditions or sabotage.

Lutheran Laymen Hold Zone Meet In Arenville

The officers of Zone 5 of the Lutheran Laymen's League met Tuesday evening at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Arenville.

Harry Konnick of Jacksonville, president of Zone 5, called the meeting to order. Rev. Alward, pastor of the church, gave a very inspiring talk telling of

The annual meeting of the Morgan County Soil Conservation district, held Wednesday night at Grace Methodist church, was attended by 116 persons. A buffet steak dinner was followed by annual reports, the election of three directors to serve two year terms, and an illustrated lecture on agriculture and life in India.

Ralph C. Hay, extension agricultural engineer, is shown at left in a characteristic pose as he made breezy and informative comments concerning some splendid colored photographs of East Indian scenes.

INDIA IS AN AMAZING COUNTRY, full of contradictions and paradoxes, Hay declared, as he reviewed his two years of service in that country.

"It is an old country with a new government. The people have made some progress since they got their independence on Aug. 15, 1947, and perhaps they have tried to move too far too fast," he asserted.

He was sent there to teach agricultural engineering in a Point 4 contract between the U. S. state department and the University of Illinois. The university sends personnel to India to teach superior methods of agriculture—and India is primarily an agricultural country. Indian students are also brought to the U. S. campus to study farm methods.

Mrs. Rosalind Kater of Waverly, who teaches kindergarten in Springfield, is shown in the second photo as she told of her experiences last summer when she was a student at the soil conservation school held at the Illinois state fairgrounds. The three weeks' school for college credit will be repeated this year.

The directors and SCS personnel are shown in the third picture. Front row, are only 16 states.

India irrigates more acres than any other country. The weather ranges from mild to hot, and it is possible to raise two or three crops per year. Production depends upon the fertility of the soil and the amount of water available for irrigation, Hay said.

His informative discussion, with its well-selected illustrations, held the attention of the audience. Later, in a question and answer period, his auditors bombarded him with queries.

Amos Western, president of the board, presided at the business meeting. Farm Planner Ted Pierce reported a year of activity and progress during the past 12 months, but emphasized that there are many, many things we are leaving undone." Farm Adviser E. H. Garlich gave the secretary-treasurer's report.

Wallace T. Hembrough reported for the nominating committee, which consisted of Hembrough, Roy Nickel of Concord and Paul Lester A. Martin of Alexander.

Amos Western, president; Ted Pierce, farm planner, and H. P. Joy of Chapin, Joy was one of the organizers of the district and served on the board continuously since 1943. He declined to accept election this year.

Food Prices Aren't High, Declares Dairy Scientist

URBANA—A dairy scientist at the University of Illinois suggests a moratorium on the complaints about food cost.

Karl Gardner says improvement in the efficiency of food production, processing and retailing deserves the praise of the American consumer, not complaints.

Lack of information about the cost of dairy foods, for example, in relation to consumer income causes most of these complaints, Gardner believes.

The fact is that for about the past four years food in general has been one of the principal stabilizing factors in keeping the cost-of-living index from rising even faster. While prices of other things were rising rapidly, food prices were holding steady or rising very slowly. Prices of some foods even went down.

More Milk For Less

Better homes, finer cars, better home appliances, more recreation, higher taxes and many other things besides food are mainly responsible for the increase in the cost of living, Gardner believes.

As another example, in the dairy field in 1940 one hour's work in the manufacturing industry would buy 5.16 quarts of milk. In 1957 the same amount of labor would buy 8.18 quarts. This is a 60 percent increase in the purchasing power of labor for milk.

An hour's work will buy 50 percent more butter today than it would 17 years ago. These price relationships refer to retail prices.

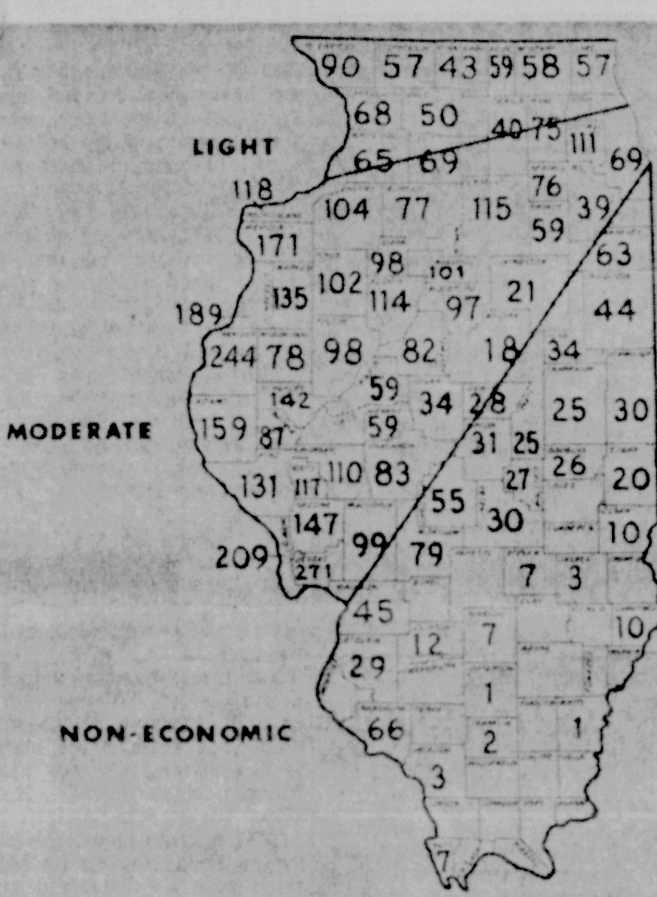

Production Costs Rise

Dairymen and other farmers are also complaining about prices, but they may have more reason. Gardner points out. Costs of farm machinery, gasoline, electric power, dairy equipment, fertilizer and labor that the dairy farmer must pay for have risen constantly. At the same time, the price that the dairy farmer gets for his milk has stayed about the same for the past seven years.

People are spending more for food these days, but it is because they are eating much better and are buying foods that are processed, prepared and packaged in more attractive and more costly forms.

In spite of this, the average consumer still eats at a cost of about 25 percent of his income. This percentage has averaged about the same for the past 30 or 40 years in the United States, with few exceptions.

1958 CORN BORER PROSPECTS

Although the Illinois corn borer threat in 1958 is less serious than for the past few years, a survey of overwintering borers shows this section is the most heavily populated area in the state.

The figures in each county represent the average number of borers per 100 stalks of corn as of Oct. 1, 1957. These counts were made by the extension entomologists at the University of Illinois and State Natural History Survey.

Borer populations are light in northern counties and not economically important in the southern part of the state, says H.B. Petty, extension entomologist.

Petty suggests plowing corn stalks clean and disking thoroughly to help prevent borer damage. Not planting too early and using a sturdy hybrid will also help prevent damage.

To Request Congress: Retain Present Farm Laws For Two Years

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Suggestions are being made among some farm groups here that Congress call a two-year moratorium on farm legislation.

Under such action, farm programs and price supports in effect in 1957 would continue for 1958 and 1959 crop years.

These suggestions have not yet been put forth formally, but are being discussed behind the scenes among farm-state congressmen and others opposed to the sharp revisions in present programs urged by President Eisenhower in a special message on agriculture last week.

Those making these proposals contend that because of apparent irreconcilable differences among farm groups in and out of government, it is futile to try to write new farm laws at this session of Congress.

Postponement of farm legislation, they point out, would afford time to lay the issues before farmers at congressional elections next fall. A new Congress returning in 1959 would be in much better shape, it is argued, to say what kind of programs farmers want.

Not Time To Change?

An economic argument is being made also for freezing 1957 farm programs. It is contended that because of the current sag in business conditions, now is not the time to make farm program changes that might easily reduce incomes and buying power of farmers and other rural residents.

Continuation of 1957 programs through this year and next would provide somewhat higher farm price supports than would prevail otherwise, even if no new legislation is passed at this session.

Some Supports Lowered

Price supports for some farm products already have been reduced by Secretary of Agriculture Benson from last year's levels. Wheat, for instance has been given a 1958 crop price support of $1.78 a bushel, or 22 cents less than last year's crop.

On an average size crop, retention of last year's support for wheat would give growers around 200 million dollars more than the new and lower support.

New and lower supports have been announced for dairy products which trade groups estimate may cut dairy returns more than a billion dollars a year. Lower supports are expected to be set up for corn, oats, rye, barley, grain sorghums, soybeans, dry beans, flaxseed and cottonseed.

May Boost Cotton

The only crop likely to get higher supports is cotton, and that's because adverse weather cut last year's production of better grades.

Extension of 1957 programs through this year and next would have very little effect on livestock and livestock products because none has government price props.

The big question mark in the farm program is the attitude of the administration. Would President Eisenhower accept or veto a resolution calling upon the executive branch of the department to extend 1957 programs to give farm leaders, politicians and others more time to debate the farm issue?

As far as could be determined, no proposal of this kind has been put up to the administration. Aides of Secretary of Agriculture Benson say they doubt it would be acceptable to him.

Prices Called Too High

They say a moratorium would constitute a setback for Benson's farm policies. He contends that price supports required under

Jersey County Farm Bureau To Meet

At 7 p.m., Jan. 30, at Jerseyville East elementary school gymnasium.

The first of six meat cutting and cooking demonstrations to be conducted throughout the state will be held Monday, Feb. 2, at the Greenfield Community High School. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. Everybody interested is invited to attend.

This series is being sponsored by the Agricultural Marketing Development and Promotion program of the Illinois Agricultural Association, with the cooperation of the National Livestock and Meat Board. A home economist and a specialist in choosing and carving meats will headline the program.

A series of schools, one of them in Pittsfield, was held last year. P. L. Pidcock, assistant in marketing for the Illinois Agricultural Association, said the project is being repeated at the request of many persons who attended last year's schools.

"These demonstrations have a two-fold purpose," Pidcock said. "The meeting will give the homemaker a good chance to increase her understanding of meat cuts and their values."

"She will be able to feed her at 56 days of age."

The name of the 1958 "Young Farmer of the Year" will be announced Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Jacksonville Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Dunlap Hotel.

This will be the third consecutive year that the Jaycees have chosen a young farmer to represent Morgan county in the state and national contests sponsored by the national organization.

The Doane Digest is a twice-monthly business and farm forecast letter printed in St. Louis for farmers, ranchers and business men. Goetsch claims "we are living in one of the most interesting and exciting periods in agricultural history."

The No. 1 farmer and three runners-up will be recognized at Tuesday's dinner.

Fred Killam, chairman of the committee in charge, said "the names of 12 outstanding young farmers, between the ages of 21 and 35, were submitted this year."

The Rock-Bottom Reason

People in many quarters of the globe feel squeezed in the Cold War combat between the two giants—the United States and the Soviet Union. Their concern is to escape involvement if they can.

As they look upon this immense struggle, surprising numbers find the United States at fault.

They criticize America for promoting and supporting military defense pacts like NATO and SEATO. They assail us for allegedly concentrating too heavily upon military preparedness through armaments.

They charge us with endangering present and future generations of humanity by continuing to test nuclear weapons.

Some do not stop short of flatly calling us warmongers.

They say we either have no foreign policy worth the name or we have one that is so rigid it bars us from bending properly in negotiations with the Soviet Union.

In many places where we have tried to help other lands with money or technical aid or both, we are accused of arrogance, economic imperialism, and the like.

Toting up the catalogue of charges, one would almost think we were the true villains in the picture, that all the urge to peace and good will and orderly living was on the other side.

Yet we Americans cannot help but wonder whether those who insist upon seeing us in so harsh a light ever go back to the real fundamentals which underlie this test of strength.

America assuredly is not perfect. But let those who assail us realize that if one great fact could be altered, there would be no need for NATO or SEATO or 40-billion-dollar defense budgets or nuclear tests or long-range intercontinental missiles.

That fact is the avowed, undisguised purpose of the masters in the Kremlin to conquer the world by one means or another.

If in place of that purpose were a Soviet aim to live at peace with the world, to live as a nation unto itself, to cooperate with the leading countries toward the just and amicable solution of all outstanding world issues, 95 per cent of the things the critics attack America for would not exist.

It was not we who began this struggle. It is not we who wish to continue it. The germ seeds took root in the hearts of men in Moscow. They could crush them in an instant, and restore to the world the climate of peace, if they so willed.

Space Disarmament

When President Eisenhower told Soviet Premier Bulganin he believes lower-level preparations should precede any meeting at the summit, he said the expected thing. But his latest proposals broke fresh ground.

His most original idea was for an agreement to use outer space for peaceful purposes only. Since both intermediate and long-range missiles soar into outer space in their great arching path to their targets, this plan amounts to a proposed ban on such missiles.

Since Russia is presumed to have a lead over the United States in missiles, the Kremlin may not take kindly to this suggestion. But there is just as much validity in our proposing it under these circumstances as there was in Russia suggesting a ban on nuclear weapons at times when our lead was overwhelming.

Indeed, to propose a ban at the point of a nation's evident greatest strength may be to apply the supreme test to its intentions. It should not be forgotten that we responded to proposals of a nuclear ban with a series of earnest, concrete and comprehensive plans for that purpose. All were rejected out of hand by the Soviet Union.

Demagogues And The A-Bomb

The other day it was reported that a U.S. military plane carrying an A-bomb had crashed in Britain. Three London newspapers played the story as headline stuff because there was "no explosion."

Presumably the papers were trying to help stem the flow of misinformation spread by ill-informed members of the British Labor party on the subject of A-bombs. A running controversy began in the House of Commons after it was disclosed earlier that U.S. planes were carrying nuclear weapons on training missions from British bases.

Among the Laborites are a good many who specialize in anti-Americanism. Evidently they saw a chance to beat that drum and also play upon British fears of involvement with nuclear explosions—accidental or otherwise.

They were guilty of the crudest demagoguery. Whether or not it was founded in genuine ignorance about nuclear matters, there is no excuse for it.

For nearly a decade, any moderately diligent reader has been able to ascertain, without dipping into top secret files, that an A-bomb will not go off until crewmen on the carrying aircraft have fitted the detonating mechanism to the bomb. Neither fire nor shock or anything else will set off an untriggered nuclear device.

Apparently the alarmist members of the Labor party are so busy thinking up anti-American and generally demagogic notions that they don't take time to read the papers.

HOLLYWOOD (P)—This year a masked horseman stole the thunder from all the film and TV cowboys who rode in the Pasadena Rose Parade. It was that elusive fighter for justice—Zorro!

Not only did Zorro draw the biggest hand from the parade crowds with his black mask and cape and his sword, but he has been slicing into his Thursday night opposition on ABC, amassing a healthy rating for a new show.

These facts, plus the insistence of a couple of small blondes named Janet and Nancy Thomas, prompted me to have a session with this fellow Zorro. Unmasked, he turned out to be a handsome young actor named Guy Williams.

He was born in New York City of Italian parents. His father wanted him to go into business, but Guy chose modeling and acting.

His agent took him to the Disney studios, which was planning the Zorro series. Handsome and 6 feet 3, Guy made an immediate impression. He could ride horseback (he learned in New York parks) and he could fence ("I took two years of lessons, but only for my own amusement"). Being familiar with Italian, French, German and Spanish, he picked up the proper accent in no time.

Finally, fellow employees came to the rescue. They showered Mrs. Lane with pennies to make up the difference. With the excess pennies, Mrs. Lane decided she'd "buy a headache powder."

Scientific Protocol—Chow Mein— Earthquake—Topper—Exits—Progeny

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN AND JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondents

WASHINGTON (P)—The White House has backed itself into an uncomfortable protocol corner by announcing that it's going to include scientists in one of the formal dinners of the social season. No scientist as such has ever been given an official social ranking in this town for the purposes of being seated at the table or placed in a receiving line.

State Department protocol chief Wiley Buchanan is tinkering in terms of putting two scientists somewhere between five-star military officers and U. S. ambassadors. One suggestion being considered is ranking a scientist according to what he has invented or discovered, which would put Dr. Edward Teller, who came up with the H-bomb somewhere near members of the Supreme Court, for example.

A spokesman for the National Science Foundation says he doesn't know any scientist who owns a monkey suit to wear to a formal dinner, so it doesn't make any difference what the protocol guys decide.

Another NSF expert says any scientist worth his salt shouldn't take time to go traipsing around to formal affairs with the Russians making so much headway in the labs these days.

At a Chinese Dinner party the other night the hostess asked Rep. D. S. (Judge) Saunders (D-Calif.) why he wasn't eating very much. The Judge explained that he had just returned from a tour of the Far East where he was continually invited to enormous lavishly prepared Chinese dinners.

"I know you're supposed to be hungry an hour after eating Chinese food," he said. "But I've had so much lately that I'm at least two months ahead."

Cabinet Secretary Max Rabb was granted an audience with Emperor Hirohito of Japan on his recent swing through the Orient. "How will I know when the interview is over?" Rabb anxiously asked U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II, as they entered the Imperial Palace.

"Don't worry," said MacArthur. "You'll know."

The emperor and Rabb bit it off pretty well, but at the end of 15 minutes Rabb noticed the court chamberlain gesturing, and immediately thereafter Rabb felt a sharp vibration in his chair. He jumped up to leave thinking he had the signal, but the emperor motioned him to sit down. They talked for another hour.

Manners Make Friends

If you have to choose between having your house look spottier or being rested and relaxed enough to enjoy your guests, choose the latter.

Leaving the palace, Rabb said to MacArthur, "That electric shock in my chair is a wonderful way to get a caller to leave. We should have that in the White House."

MacArthur laughed. "That was no shock," he said. "That was just a minor earthquake you felt."

Once a Year Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson reluctantly takes out his high silk hat and wears it to some snazzy affair. Other night it was to the first White House formal dinner of the season.

Johnson's staff panics when this yearly display is made, because as one of his advisers claims, "It would cost us 10,000 votes in Texas as if a picture of him in that hat gets shown around back home."

It's Mrs. Johnson, "Lady Bird's" insistence that he wear it at least once a year, regardless of potentially disastrous political consequences. She gave it to him 15 years ago and says, "Regardless of what everyone says, I love to see him in it."

Friends Were Surprised to see Rep. Ludwig Teller (D-N.Y.) leaving a theater the other night red-faced and angry.

"What's the matter, Ludwig?" they asked. "You look as if you're ready to declaim war."

"I've been looking forward to seeing this show all week because I was told the main character in it had the same name as mine," the congressman answered. "Well, that Ludwig Teller turned out to be a crook and was shot dead half way through the movie."

You'll Never See British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia or any other top ranking guest in the middle of a room during a reception or cocktail party. They're always on the outer edges and slowly moving in a clockwise direction to the nearest exit.

That's the technique they use for getting out of a party as quickly and as gracefully as possible so that they have time to get to the next party. If they allow themselves to get caught in the middle of the room they find themselves trapped by crowds and long-winded story-tellers.

Republican Senate Leader William S. Knowland apparently has political ambitions for his off-spring, too. "Speaker Sam Rayburn has outlived two generations of knowlands," says the California senator, "and when one of my sons or grandsons comes to Washington, I'm sure Speaker Sam will still be on the job."

And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.—1 Thess. 5:23.

God will always reveal His will to one who is willing to do it.—Hilys Jasper.

WASHINGTON (P)—One of the most important and chilling statements to come out of Washington in a long time is the one just made — by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee — on our defense position as compared with the Soviet Union.

It is not pretty. It says the Russians are ahead in missiles and submarines; are catching up in air power and, at the rate they're going, will forge ahead; can develop new weapons faster; and are producing scientists and engineers at a greater rate.

None of that is new. All those comparisons have, in one way or another, been drawn by witnesses before the subcommittee, which began its investigation of our defense program after the Soviet Union fired its Sputniks.

But in the days since the Sputniks went aloft the public has probably become confused about the true picture because of lily-gilding by some witnesses and the blame-taming by politicians of both parties against one another.

This statement, presented to the Senate late Thursday, puts the picture in focus. It is an informed, impartial, authoritative and non-political as such a document can be hoped to be. It's significant for three reasons:

1. The subcommittee drew its conclusions after 101 days of investigation in which it heard 70 witnesses, interviewed over 200 experts, and took more than 7,000 pages of testimony.

2. The subcommittee is made up of Democrats and Republicans. All agreed on what the statement contained. This unanimity makes it impartial and non-political. The members were talking as senators and not as Democrats or Republicans.

3. Because of the impartial nature of the statement it will be the background for judging what President Eisenhower proposes, and Congress does, in the days ahead to catch up with and get in front of the Russians.

After listing the fields in which the U.S.S.R. is ahead of this country, the report says the subcommittee listed 17 points of action for the government to take to make the best use of its vitality, brains and manpower.

The statement was grim. It showed beyond question this country has been dragging its feet and has been asleep although it did not attempt to blame either the Truman or Eisenhower administrations.

It deliberately avoided blame. It had to. Otherwise, there would have been no unanimity on this statement which limited itself to saying where we've lost and what we need to do.

But Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader and chairman of the subcommittee, in reading the statement to the Senate, did paint an entirely black picture. He said about Soviet superiority:

"These facts do not give cause for comfort. But we do not consider them a cause for despair or hopelessness. We regard them as a challenge."

"There is nothing in the record to indicate that America has lost its vitality or its capacity to produce in time whatever we need to retain our present power to strike devastating blows . . . at any aggressor."

"While the future is very close—extremely close—it is still under our control."

The Franklin State bank and the Schauf grocery caught fire, but were quickly doused with only slight damage. The fire was discovered at 3 a.m. and the loss was estimated at $30,000.

How You Can Keep Your Husband Alive

BY BEULAH STOWE

There are too many widows and too few couples, after 65. The most priceless possession a woman can have is a husband of her own—even if she doesn't like him very much.

A husband is companionship. Instead of loneliness. Belonging, instead of longing to belong. A husband is invitations out, a place in social affairs, more money and more pension, to most women.

Practically speaking, a husband is worth taking good care of. And if a wife not only finds him useful, but loves him, life without him is something she dares not contemplate.

Here's how to help keep this valuable man alive as long as possible:

1. Feed him wisely, but not too well. (He has probably never stayed home all day before he retired, and he may find the kitchen all too available.) Follow your doctor's advice.
2. Assure him that he is more important to you than any household jobs which require unusual physical strength from him. A man past 65 should not handle an extension ladder, re-roof his garage, or work at anything until exhaustion. Men who are accustomed to heavy physical labor may be exceptions to this general rule.
3. Share and share alike. You can spare him some of the lifting and moving jobs about the house. He can spare you some of the cooking and home beautifying and gardening, thereby finding a new interest in his home.
4. Respect his wishes. If he says he's too tired to go out, he's too tired. If he says he needs a short nap, he needs a short nap.
5. Encourage him to do something—in hobbies, in social service, in business—which will maintain a keen interest in living.

Q—"I am a widow, 64, and am entitled to Social Security benefits both because of my husband's past earnings, and because I am employed. I plan to retire next year. Can I get his benefits and mine, too?"
A—No. You are entitled to receive whichever is larger of the two benefits, but not both.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Religion of Love

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

If religion at all follows the pattern set by Jesus in the great commandments of love to God and love to man, the commandments which were written in the Jewish law, and which are at the very heart of the religion in which both He, and the lawyer who questioned him had grown up (Luke 10:25-28), this religion of love ought to be the noblest, most humanly kind and joyous of all human experiences and attainments.

In practice, however, religion sometimes puts separatism, intolerance and technicalities above considerations of humanity and love.

It is a sad thing to contemplate that religion, which ought to be in its inherent meaning a binding force, actually in this 20th century is to such an extent a divisive force, a basic cause of religious and racial intolerance, and one of the deepest causes of inhumanity and strife in the world today.

Consider, for example, the narrowness and inhumanity that, though but part of a larger problem, is emphasized as it affects Jew and Arab, and causes strife and killing between Moslem and other religious groups in India.

Consider, too, the virtual "religion" of communism, with its professed hope for mankind, which actually offers torture and destruction to many and threatens the safety and welfare of all.

The administration shows belated concern for training engineers. But you can't teach geometry to engineering students in college who haven't learned multiplication in grammar school.

Americans Are 'Weak' as Far As Coffee Goes, Expert Says

BY GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor
Average strength coffee should be brewed at a ration of 40 cups to the pound.

That's the experienced opinion of Ellen Saltonstall, consumer service director of the Pan-American Coffee Bureau. Miss Saltonstall, nationally known expert in coffee making, believes coffee in most American homes is poor.

"A large percentage of American families never know good coffee," she says. "You cannot get more than 45 percent, drinkable cups of coffee out of a pound of ground coffee—and 40 cups to the pound is much better. Today, the national average is 64 cups to the pound, weak and pallid beyond description."

"Because coffee is primarily a beverage for enjoyment and because it often sets the tone for meals served at home, housewives should learn how easy it is to make it properly," she adds.

Here's how to make good coffee according to the Coffee Brewing Institute:

Start with fresh coffee, fresh water and a clean coffee-maker. Use two level measuring tablespoons (or one standard coffee measure) of proper-grind coffee to the three-quarters of a measuring cup (8 ounces) of water for each serving. If you prefer coffee which is weaker, make it as directed here and add water after brewing. Use at least three-quarters of the capacity of your coffee-maker and experiment to find the best timing for your brewing device and then stick to it. Finally, be sure the coffee is really hot when you serve it.

MONDAY'S DINNER: Sliced cold ham, mustard, creamed potatoes, succotash, enriched bread, butter or margarine, cole slaw, ready-mix lemon flake cake with frosting, coffee, tea, milk.

CARS ARE MY LINE
by: E. W. Brown
STORY OF A BARGAIN

We get a lot of folks on our lot from time to time — sensible and honest people, including some who are happy to call personal friends — who we just can't seem to satisfy when it comes to selecting a particular used car.

Once they've settled on the car of their choice the conversation usually gets around to what's been in the back of their mind all the time — whether the best possible deal's at our place or whether they should shop around in a bigger city where, they figure, there's a greater selection and more competition among car dealers.

If they really aren't satisfied in their minds that the best buy is right here at home, we usually thank them for dropping in and suggest they see us again if they don't find what they're looking for. We figure they'll be back when they find they can't better our deal.

Recently, though, we got fooled on this one and the customer came back to tell us about the better 'deal' he made in the big city. In this case the price difference — model for model and year for year — was a flat $100.00, which even with today's inflation will still buy a lot of cigars.

It puzzled us how the dealer could do this because we know no dealer could keep his doors open on a slimmer profit margin than ours, until our friend started having trouble with his 'buggy' and brought it into us for a checkover.

The car had been in a bad wreck that had twisted the frame with its engine mounts and had thrown the transmission shaft out of line. The repair cost: a minimum of several hundred dollars.

Unfortunately, the customer hadn't been able to spot the telltale signs that the car had been in a bad accident (a difficult job even for an expert if it's been well concealed). Though we think he'll be our customer for life from here on we still gave him some of the few easy rules we use in uncovering a patch-up job. That's what we're going to do for YOU next week at absolutely NO cost to our readers.

SOYBEAN PRICES NEAR LOAN LEVEL

Soybean prices seem to be on dead center. Only minor price changes are expected until some new market development appears. The supply appears to be around 40 million bushels more than will be used and exported, and by Dec. 15 that amount had been placed under price support. Recent prices were probably high enough to prevent large additional amounts from being placed under loan.

According to a USDA estimate, farm stocks of beans on Jan. 1 totaled 188 million bushels, which was 13 percent more than the previous record high for that date one year before. Stocks in commercial storage totaled about 26 million bushels compared with 16 million the year before.

Other beans are stored in local elevators, at terminal markets and at crushing plants. The amounts stored in these locations will be reported by the USDA late in January. Rough calculations indicate that stocks on Jan. 1 may have totaled about 364 million bushels, 40 million more than was reported for the year before.

Supplies are larger. The total supply for this year (beginning Oct. 1) was 490 million bushels compared with 443 million a year before. Exports for October-December were around 40 million compared with 37 million in 1956. Crushings took about 86 million compared with 82 million the year before.

The price support loan rate for this year is $2.98 a bushel compared with $2.15 last year. By Dec. 15, 1957, farmers had put 41 million bushels under price support compared with 51 million a year earlier.

Prices for 1956 crop beans stayed enough above the support level to cause farmers to turn over only 25 million bushels to CCC by May 31. Present prices are well below those of last year, so there is no inducement for a farmer to redeem his beans and sell them on the market.

Any beans taken over by CCC on May 31 may be sold at a price equal to (1) the support level, plus 1 cent for each month or part month after May, or (2) the market price—whichever is higher. Every sale, of course, will tend to reduce the market price. A similar policy was followed last summer, and most of the 25 million bushels of beans turned over to the CCC May 31 were sold by mid-August.

The Suez blockade gave bean prices a big boost late in 1956. There has been no corresponding development yet this season. A sharp recovery in business activity or an increase in export aids would give the market a lift.

Processing Margins Smaller
Recent processing margins were much smaller than those of a year before. The price of soybeans was down nearly 30 cents a bushel, but the value of the oil and meal in a bushel of beans was down more than 40 cents.

Soybean products are cheap in comparison with competing commodities. A year ago soybean oil was 14 cents a pound, only 1 cent below cottonseed oil. Recently soybean oil was 11 cents, 4 cents below cottonseed oil. A year ago the base price of soybean meal was $49.50 a ton, $3.00 below cottonseed meal. Recently the bean meal was $43.50, or $7.00 below the cottonseed meal. These current low prices for soybean products give processors little incentive for bidding up prices of beans.

On the other hand, the availability of price support relieves farmers of the need to sell at possibly lower prices.

An American Every One Should Know

Maria Mitchell

By Walter B. Hendrickson

Inventor Of Air Brakes

I am sure you have ridden on a train or bus, and heard the hissing of escaping air as the train or bus came to a stop. As you know, buses and trains have air-brakes (so do big trailer trucks), and they work so well that the heavy vehicles, going at full speed, come to a safe, gentle stop.

The man who invented air brakes was George Westinghouse, who was born in 1846 at Central Bridge, N. Y., where his father had an agricultural implement factory.

Young George ran away from home at the age of fifteen to join the Union army during the Civil War, but his father had him brought back home. But he let George enlist when he was sixteen years old. George was honorably discharged from the army in 1864, but he joined the navy, and served a year as an engineer.

When the war was over he spent two months at Union College, but quit to join his father in the factory. Always an ingenious boy, with quick hands, and accustomed to using machinery, George soon began to invent useful things like a rotary steam engine and a car replacer for putting derailed freight cars back on the track.

But the most important thing he invented was the air-brake by which fast-moving trains could be brought to a safe stop.

Dangerous Job

Before Westinghouse's airbrakes, brakemen had to run along the top of the box cars and turn a wheel on each car, so that pressure was brought on the wheels. But Westinghouse' brake was controlled from the engineer's cab, and air pressure was exerted from compressors underneath each car of the train at the same time. This was a much quicker method of bringing the car to a stop, and also much safer for the brakemen who no longer had to run from car to car of swaying trains.

Westinghouse formed his own company to make his airbrakes, and soon all the railroads in the United States were using his invention.

Keeps On Inventing

George Westinghouse did not stop inventing things. Next, he invented railroad signals operated by electricity, so that locomotive engineers would know whether the track was clear.

He also developed an American system for sending alternating electric current from a central power station into homes and factories, and his company made the transformers and other equipment used by light and power companies.

Westinghouse did not discover the principle of alternating current, or that of transformers for stepping voltage up or down. This was done in Europe. But he did establish standards for the electrical business here in America.

He had a very large factory and his products were in great demand. To his factory he brought young Nikola Tesla, a Hungarian, and put him to work improving the motors used in the United States. Tesla was the inventor of an alternating current motor.

George Westinghouse built up a great world-wide business in motors, transformers, and all the other things needed for the new electrical industry. His ingenuity, his organizing ability, and his courage to try new things contributed much to make the United States the largest user of electricity in the world.

The Basketball Champ

By Ray Broekel

Chapter 1: Butter-fingers

Carl Lawson shouted, "Pass the ball, pass the ball," to Bill Stromberg who was dribbling down the floor.

Bill, quickly sizing up the situation, saw that Carl was standing free under the basket. He flipped a bounce pass under the outstretched hands of an opponent.

Carl saw the ball coming and reached out for it. Bill had thrown a little spin on the ball which Carl hadn't counted on, so the ball slid into Carl's waiting hands and then as quickly slid back out toward the sidelines.

Fans Groan

The Capestown fans in the bleachers groaned. That was the second time Carl Lawson had let the ball get away from him in this quarter.

Coach Barnsdall shook his head on the bench. He motioned to one of the other players sitting on the bench. "Go in for Lawson, and let's see if you can keep your hands on the ball."

The substitute raced eagerly to the scorer's table where he reported. The referees had just called a jump ball, so he was allowed to get right in the game.

Carl Discouraged

Carl trotted despondently over to the bench. He had the feeling that his varsity basketball playing days were about over.

As the game went on he began to have this feeling more strongly, as Coach Barnsdall sent in player after player without calling on him again.

The final score saw Capestown on the short end, 47 to 62. The dressing room was rather quiet as the Capestown players showered and dressed.

Coach Barnsdall poked his head in the door and asked Carl to

The Earth and Moon with Telescope

Would See Them With Telescope

MARTIANS' VIEW OF EARTH

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Earth would appear to the Martians, without a telescope, much as Venus does to us, except that earth would appear to be blue-green rather than white.

The earth would have this blue-green color because of the seas' reflection which differs from the continuous layer of clouds that veil Venus.

Through telescopes, the Martians would be able to watch the earth and moon go through phases. The Martians would never get to see all of earth illuminated at one time because when earth is at the "full" for Mars the sun is between earth and Mars.

Though the Martians could never see all of the surface of the earth or moon at one time, they could see it in a series of observations throughout a year. They should be able to make fairly good maps of our continents and the more pronounced features on the moon.

The Martians would, of course, also see clouds in earth's atmosphere and they could compare the seasonal color changes on earth with those of their own planet.

These observations would probably lead them to conclude that some sort of life existed on earth.

Oceans A Puzzle

The Martians would no doubt be puzzled by our large oceans since there are no oceans on Mars.

Davie Tells Tiger

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

"Did you ever laugh?" Davie asked Tiger. "Well, I can smile pretty well, but I purr better," Tiger answered, "Why?"

Davie shook some hay out of his mane then he began.

"Last evening I had to laugh out loud when Little Brother was talking while they were driving home. Then Little Brother's father asked, 'What was that noise?'"

It sounded as if Davie laughed too, but of course, that couldn't be."

"Try me," Tiger suggested, "I would like to be amused. You were gone all evening. There was nothing laughable here. I had a cold supper, only bread and milk. Where were you?"

"We were invited out," Davie explained. "Even I had a feast."

"What about Donna? What would she say? Her being captain of the cheer-leading squad wouldn't help a bit."

Carl finished the shoe lace on the last shoe. He picked up his duffel bag and walked out of the dressing room.

The other players didn't look up after him as he left. They knew what was going to happen without saying.

Coach Barnsdall was sitting behind his desk. He was looking over the scorebook. He looked up as Carl entered.

"Sit down, Carl. There's no sense in miming words. You know that I'm pretty blunt about saying things when they need saying."

Jeannie Studies The Creature World

By Melma Hucceby Ewert

Spider's Treasure

One morning when Professor Daddy was leaving, Jeannie shouted, "Daddy! Mother! Come here! Come here!"

"Where did Mrs. Spider get that little grey bag?" Now Spider felt vibrations from Jeannie's voice! Frightened, she let the little bag fall to her glass floor.

Lady Spider flashed to the side of her treasure, and she began tying her silken threads around it.

"So she can handle it better," said Daddy.

Mrs. Spider slowly lifted it, little by little. When safe again in her private room, she fastened it with floss.

Then she sidled down to that far corner of her domain, where her morning fly, in her snare, was trying to escape.

"What is in that bag, Daddy?" Jeannie softly whispered.

"Her eggs, Honey. In a few days Spider will have a large family."

Later, Mrs. Spider nipped the bag with her fierce mandibles (jaws) and there came a stream like a soft grey cloud, floating off. Jeannie knelt close to her, her magnifying glass against Spider's glass house.

The cloud was made up of little grey specks that began to separate. She tried to count them as they rode away, each on its own spin line.

Smart Babies

Jeannie, amazed, said softly, "You are smart children. I can't knit yet. And you are spinning."

How those baby spiders could get about! Though, through her glass, they were not like spiders. Yet Mother began to find webs under the chairs and parlor table.

Professor Daddy said, "When we all walk about, we make a breeze, and little winds carry baby spiders riding on their spin lines."

"Let's put Mrs. Spider's house on the veranda," Mother suggested. "Let's leave the nesting off!"

Jeannie set the uncovered glass house on the veranda! A whole week passed. Mrs. Spider stayed at home.

No! She didn't worry about her children. She knew how smart they were. They were spinning in the Giant Cactus, the yucca, the Joshua tree, breeze blown.

An Antique Pitcher

By Mabel Hall Goltra

In whaling days, it was the ambition of many a young man to become a sea captain and be master of his ship and sail to all the foreign ports.

In 1807 Stephen Hawkins, a sea captain who was interested of course in anything new in ships, decided to go from his home in New Bedford, Mass. to New York City to see Fulton's "Clermont."

make her maiden voyage up the Hudson river to Albany.

Fulton had been assisted in designing his steam boat by Robert R. Livingston whose home was in Clermont, New York, and for that reason Fulton named his new ship the "Clermont."

Little Abbie Goes Too

Stephen Hawkins was the father of a large family of children and chose to take with him his little daughter, Abbie Eunice, who was seven years of age. Her mother made her a new dress and of course she must have a new hat and new shoes.

The day they went was a pleasant one and after they had seen the first steam-boat sail away from the pier in New York City after having some engine trouble, Abbie's father wanted to buy something that would be more useful than a doll and he selected a beautiful little pitcher that would hold enough milk for her to drink and at the same time one that she would enjoy looking at.

The pitcher was turquoise blue with bands of violet around the top and bottom. Six small white flowers with four petals each, in conventional design were placed one inch apart around the upper part of the pitcher.

A graceful Grecian design in raised figures ran around the center with little cupids playing in the green grass while on one side there was a monument surrounded by several women one of whom was placing a wreath of flowers upon the monument.

One little cupid was playing with a lion much larger than himself. Another cupid was holding a sheet of music up for his little playmate who is playing a horn.

Have any of you children seen a pitcher like that one? It is now one hundred and fifty years old and one little cupid seems to be still playing with the ferocious looking lion and enjoying himself very much.

Waters Itself!

As the water evaporates from the soil the moisture rises, strikes the glass top, condenses into drops and falls back onto the soil, constantly rewatering itself!

If too much moisture collects inside, just taking the glass lid off will let some escape outside and evaporate away. This is as painless a form of gardening as is possible. Even Tom Sawyer wouldn't object to it. So good gardening to you.

You can read about this garden and other fun in "Hobby Fun Book" by Margaret Hyde and Frances Keene, at the Public Library.

Swamp Terrarium

What one of us hasn't at one time or other hunted for turtles and bullfrogs along the shores of a peaceful lake?

It's even fun to watch them scamper and hop about in and out of the water. You can do it in your own house.

Borrow a large rectangular aquarium; round up some sand, rocks, soil, and some tiny water plants that will grow under water such as arrowhead, waterweed etc., obtainable at many pet stores.

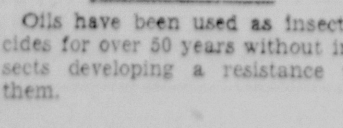

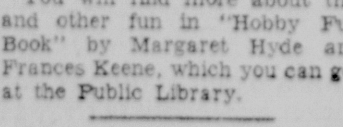

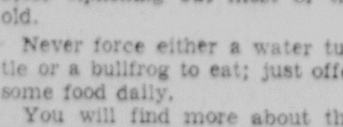

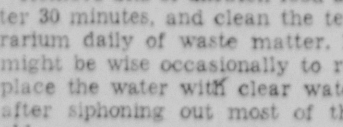

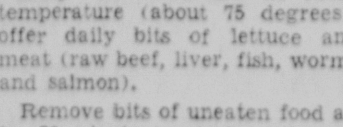

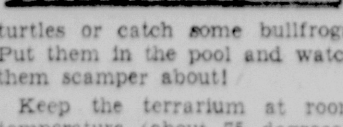

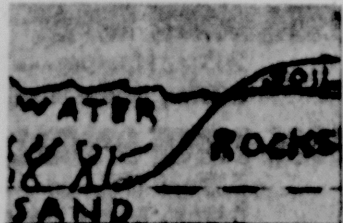

Now cover the entire bottom with an inch layer of washed sand. Next pile up rocks topped by soil ten inches high, and let it stand down into the sand so as to form an eight-inch-deep pool.

Plant your water plants in the sand, and fill the terrarium with water eight inches deep; always refill to this depth.

When putting in the water, cover the plants with newspaper and pour water on top of this, then carefully remove the paper.

Mrs. James Edwards

Dixie Oxley Muscato Marries Chicago Man At Durbin Church

BRANKLIN—In a simple but impressive candlelight ceremony at seven o'clock Saturday evening, January eleven, at the Durbin church, Dixie Oxley Muscato was united in marriage with James Edwards of Chicago.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Coila Oxley of Jacksonville. The groom is the son of Mrs. J. C. Edwards of Kansas City, Kan.

Mrs. H. N. Crain played a prelude of nuptial music, and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied Mrs. Milford Rees who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" during the service.

The Rev. George Garbis, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with ferns and decorated with white tapers and a basket of white gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. H. E. Oliver of Chicago, was lovely in an apricot street length dress with which she wore a small white flowered hat with a touch of green, and a white orchid corsage.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Mildred Roberts, who wore a beige knit suit and a pink flowered hat. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Bonnie Bannister, niece of the bride, carried the rings atop a white satin pillow. Her dress was of blue felt.

Spaulding Fox of Chicago served as best man. The two men wore dark blue suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

Gary Rawlings and Richard Rawlings, nephews of the bride, served as ushers.

Preceding the ceremony the candles were lighted by Richie and Patsy Roberts, nephew and niece of the bride.

Mrs. Oxley chose a blue floral print jersey dress for her daughter's wedding. With it she wore a white felt hat and a white carnation corsage.

Reception at Church

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the basement of the church. It was decorated with white streamers from which a large white bell hung over a table in the middle of the room.

The table was centered with a five-tiered white wedding cake decorated with orange roses and topped with lovebirds, each holding a ring. Around the central cake were three small cakes with fern and gladioli woven between.

Guests were served cake, punch, minis and nuts. Mrs. Wilma Bannister, sister of the bride, cut cake, and Mrs. Gary Rawlings served punch. Mrs. Gertrude Rawlings, Mrs. Bernadine McDevitt and Mrs. Margaret Oliver, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Maxine Carpenter and Miss Joy Carpenter assisted with the serving.

Miss Carol McDevitt, niece of the bride, registered the guests. The couple is residing in Glenview. They visited with relatives here until January 15 before leaving for their home.

French gardens in this period were well irrigated and flower beds were included in the design. Flat pools of water were also used effectively, always conforming to the straight lines of the formal plan. The Middleton Gardens at Charleston, S. Carolina, are patterned closely after those at Versailles.

Formality Versus Pattern

The English Romanticists, Mrs. Wright pointed out, were tired of formality in every type of art, and scrupulously avoided straight lines in their gardens. Artificial lakes, hedges, and flower beds were all laid out in irregular shapes so they would look more "natural."

The gardens at Blenheim, covering a thousand acres and carefully restored by Consuelo Vanderbilt and the 9th Duke of Marlborough during their 12 year marriage, are an outstanding example of the Romantic design. In this country the Magnolia Gardens, also at Charleston, are beautifully planned to follow in the English Romantic tradition.

Mrs. Wright closed her lecture by emphasizing that our great gardens today are patterned after designs established in one or the other of these three important periods. In America we are fortunate to have world famous examples of these three types of garden design at Williamsburg and Charleston.

During the roll call members responded by reading verses about gardens which had been taken from European sun-dials. Mrs. McKendree Blair ably operated the projector for the afternoon's program.

History Of Gardens Illustrated For Club By Courtney C. Wright

The Jacksonville Household Science Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. John Taylor on Tuesday afternoon, January 21, with Mrs. M. C. Reynolds as assistant-hostess. Mrs. J. N. Conover, who had arranged the program for the day, presented Mrs. Courtney C. Wright as guest speaker on the subject, "Changes Through the Years in the Garden."

Mrs. Wright's lecture, beautifully illustrated by her own colored slides, clearly brought out the fact that great garden designs have always reflected the social and geographical conditions of the time and place in which they were developed.

A garden design, like any other work of art, is a form of social expression influenced by political, economic, and physical factors. There were three great periods in the history of garden design: in Italy, during the Renaissance of the 16th and 17th centuries; in France during the reign of Louis XIV in the 17th century; and in England, during the last half of the 18th century when the Romantic Movement was at its height.

Gardens for the Rulers

Italian Renaissance gardens on the estates of popes, cardinals, and wealthy ruling families, were laid out impressively on a grand scale to follow strictly formal lines. Mrs. Wright made clear these gardens often included terraces at four or five levels and made effective use of stone stairways, fountains, statuary, and vases. Straight lines used in planting greatly simplified the problems of irrigation. Because of the hot, dry summers no flowers were grown in these Italian gardens but they were closely clipped green hedges of yew and boxwood and the carefully tended grassy areas could be enjoyed throughout the year. The Williamsburg Gardens follow designs established during this period in Italy.

18th Century Perfection

Garden design in France reached its highest form at Versailles about 1700, the speaker explained. Louis XIV and Le Notre, the most famous landscape architect of the time, spent 40 years working out the plans for the Versailles gardens which are considered to be of perfect proportions even today. A canal, over a mile long, forms the central axis of the gardens and expresses the monarch's feeling of infinite power since, as viewed from the palace, it stretches away into the distance and appears to have no end.

French gardens in this period were well irrigated and flower beds were included in the design. Flat pools of water were also used effectively, always conforming to the straight lines of the formal plan. The Middleton Gardens at Charleston, S. Carolina, are patterned closely after those at Versailles.

Jersey County Pays $2 Bounty On Foxes

JERSEYVILLE — Jersey county trappers are beginning to bring in their fox pelts to the office of County Clerk Tom Lock for collection of the bounty paid by the county of $2 for each fox scalp.

One of the largest bunches thus far was brought in Wednesday morning by George Kirchner of the Richwoods township locality. He had 31 pelts, a half catch of gray foxes and half red foxes.

Kirchner this season was trapping more for the purpose of controlling the animals in the locality of his farm than with any idea of making money. Apart from the bounty fee, he will probably realize another dollar for each pelt from local fur buyers.

"Trapping foxes is not a money making task," Kirchner stated. "I get a certain amount of fun out of catching them, but it's worth at least a dollar to skin one of them and stretch his hide."

"I also have to catch a few of them each season for protection of my livestock and poultry. You take these old gray foxes, they're blamed near as bad as a wolf. When it comes to stealing little pigs, the gray fox is a mean one. He'll eat a young pig, and as soon as he gets hungry, he'll be back after another one. The red fox is not that way, although he might take a pig now and then, but that old gray boy is most as bad as a wolf."

"Just to show you how numerous the foxes are around my place, I trapped these pelts this season on a 30 acre red clover field, and I had only 15 traps out."

Kirchner usually catches around 30 foxes each trapping season, and stated that the most he ever caught in one open period was 41.

Fireman Injured By Falling Flue At Jerseyville
JERSEYVILLE — An overturned stove in a house on Stryker avenue resulted in a heavy loss by fire in the building. The place had recently been purchased by Ruby Miller of Jerseyville and Mr. Miller was making some improvements. The wall paper had been torn off and accumulated on the floor of the building. Miller attempted to stir up the fire in a small stove used to heat the house and it overturned, setting fire to the pile of paper, about 7:35 a.m.

The blaze soon spread through the entire house which was unoccupied. The Jerseyville Fire Department was called and spent some time extinguishing the fire.

The blaze evidently had worked its way to some of the inner walls and smoldering as there was another outbreak about 10 a.m. and the local firemen returned to the scene to again fight the blaze.

Several of the firemen narrowly escaped injury during the fire when a chimney crashed through the roof and fell in a room where the men were fighting the blaze. Two of the firemen managed to dodge the falling brick but Carl Gross was struck by bricks and suffered a leg injury and had one toe mashed.

Damage to the residence was heavy.

Eyesight is priceless — good light is cheap

Of course good lamps can be beautiful . . . but the light they shed is the most important thing about them. A good lamp, fitted with the right kind of bulb, lets you work, read, sew, knit, study or pursue your hobby in comfortable relaxation.

That's because your eyes react naturally, without your knowing it, to light and dark. A light that's too harsh or too dim can cause strain—make you feel "edgy" all over. In light that's soft and glare-free your eyes relax, and so do you! And you see better! So look at the lamps you buy—and those you own —two ways . . . for good lighting and for beauty!

When you look at lamps, look for these. They're designed for good lighting

plain diffusing bowl

A lamp with this kind of diffusing bowl lets light come down on the surface you're looking at—and go up, to be reflected indirectly. Can be fitted with a 50-100-150 watt bulb so that you may select the light you need.

vase-shaped diffusing bowl

A lamp with a diffusing bowl like this, with the bulb deep inside, gives indirect light, too, sending more light downward. Ideal with 50-100-150 watt selective bulb.

mushroom type bulb

This 3-way mushroom type bulb has its own built-in diffuser—gives you three different wattages (50-100-150) by turning the switch. It's easy to convert lamps you like to live with to lamps that are easy to see by, with a harp and this kind of bulb.

Jacks Decide 66-51 Victory Over Panthers In 4th Quarter Push

By STAN SPOTTS

Jacksonville maintained narrow leads for three quarters but turned on the team in the final period to rack up 20 points and a 66-51 triumph over Eisenhower of Decatur Friday night at the JHS Bowl before a full house.

It was Jacksonville's 12th win in 15 starts for the season. Galen Kinner's Panthers were dealt their fifth setback in 13 games.

John Chapman's Crimsons threw a blanket defense around Eisenhower's offense in the first period to take a 17-11 spread and a 35-27 lead at halftime. Jacksonville's big boys, Bone, Schildman and McKipke, dominated the boards in the first half and the height told on Eisenhower.

In the opening four minutes of the contest, the score was tied twice but the lead exchanged hands eight times before two free throws by Milt McKipke put JHS on top to stay in the first half. 3:50 remained to be played in the first half when McKipke connected and then a charity toss and tip-in made it 15-10. Eisenhower added a free throw before Bill Schildman hit on a rebound attempt for a 17-11 margin for the Crimsons after eight minutes of play.

Midway through the second quarter, JHS had increased its lead to 10 points, 27-17, but Eisenhower applied the pressure with a 2-12 zone defense and closed the gap, 29-22, with 1:30 left to play before halftime. Milt McKipke hit two baskets in rapid succession in the 20 seconds of play for a 33-22 lead. Bone added JHS' final two points of the first half with a layup with 25 seconds left before intermission and an eventual 35-27 lead for the winners.

The Jacks started poorly to open the third frame and this enabled Eisenhower to catch up. While the Crimsons were going without a single tally for three minutes, the Panthers caught up with 5:17 left to go, 35-35, on a side shot by Jerry Benjamin, their ace scorer for the evening with 13 points.

17 seconds later, two free throws by Mike Scott, put JHS out in front to stay for the remainder of the game. Bone made the scoreboard read, 39-35, JHS' favor but the Panthers stayed in contention on a bucket by Walker, 39-37. Jacksonville registered a single tally but the officials called Bone for foul tending a moment later on Benjamin's shot and the Crimsons found themselves leading by a single marker, 40-39.

Points by Warcup and Schildman pushed the Jacks into a quick 44-39 spread. Dave Bone brought the house down when he was on the receiving end of a fast break. The 6-5 junior took the pass in stride, saw there wasn't a soul around him and proceeded to go above the rim of the basket to cram the ball down the hoop to make it 46-41. Eisenhower waited for a last second shot and scored on a side tally by Walker to trail the Jacks after three quarters, 46-43.

JHS regained its stride in the final period by dominating the boards and scoring at will. Two minutes had elapsed on the clock when Bill Schildman connected to put JHS on top by 10 points, 55-45. The Panthers came to within six points of the lead, 56-50, with 3:30 left in the game but that's as close as they came. They managed only one point in the next remaining three minutes and 50 seconds of playing time while JHS was taking a 60-50 spread with 2:30 left to play. Bone ended the scoring for the evening on a jump shot just before the horn sounded to end the game and the Crimsons left the floor with a 66-51 victory under their belts.

Milt McKipke topped JHS' scoring with 19 tallies followed by Bone's 16 markers. Scott registered 12 and Schildman chipped in with 10. Chapman stayed with his starting five throughout most of the contest and they came through with some top-flight rebounding and all of them turned in a splendid floor game.

Highlanders Idle This Week. Little Tops Scoring List

The MacMurray Highlanders, victors in seven of their past eight games, take a rest this week from the hardwork for semester examinations. The pause finds them carrying a 9-6 win-loss record, including a mighty upset over McKendree College Thursday evening, 72-66.

"McKendree is one of the best ball clubs we'll play this year," Coach Bill Wall said in commenting on the contest. He pointed out that it was a statistically poor game, with the Bearcats hitting on only 26% of their shots while MacMurray connected on 40%. Although he wasn't pleased with the Highlanders' technical performance, the MacMurray coach admired the hustle and determination that his men displayed in avenging an earlier 92-78 loss to McKendree.

In addition, Wall remarked that MacMurray's "hot and cold defense" had one of its best nights. MacMurray's Lynn Blair had Lloyd Castillo, the Bearcats' biggest threat, bottled up most of the game although the 6-3 center still collected 17 points. Arnie Feldt, the visitors' sharpshooting guard who normally averages 20 points per contest, was held to one free throw.

Little Leads Scorers

Gary Little, who hit 17 points in the second half against McKendree, paces the Highlanders in scoring with a 26-point average in 15 games. Don McCarty is second with a 14.2 average, ahead of Chuck Osborne with 10. The Highlanders face the loss of Osborne after this semester, who is transferring to Wittenberg College.
--

The Scotsmen have a season's shooting average of 41.9% on 1074 attempts with 451 bullets. Their free throw record is 66.4% on the basis of 267 good ones in 402 tries. The Highlanders average 77.9 points per game against their opponents' 75.6.

Routt Gains 4th Loop Win With 71-60 Over Bluffs Bluejays

BLUFFS—Center Tom Shanley came off the bench in the second quarter to help spark Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets to a 71-60 PMBC win over Bluffs here Friday night.

Shanley pumped in 15 points and used his height to help Routt dominate the boards. Tom Regan turned in his best game of the season and aided the Rocket cause with 16 tallies. Four Rocket scorers hit in the double figures in the scoring column to help Routt gain its fifth win of the season against 11 defeats. The Rockets are now 4-3 in the loop standings.

Routt led from the opening tip-off and Bluffs waited until the final frame to give the Rockets a run for the final decision. Cox and Vortman, who led Bluejay scoring with 16 points apiece, spearheaded Bluffs' last quarter uprising.

JELLY BEANS? YUP!
REMEMBER WHAT TEACHER SAID! TOO MUCH CANDY IS BAD FOR YOUR TEETH!
DON'T WORRY JENNY LU.
THE WAY I EAT 'EM.
THEY DON'T EVEN TOUCH MY TEETH!

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE
AUNT MARTHA WAS SO GLAD YOU WANTED UP. HONESTLY, JUSTIN NEEDS THE MOST FABULOUS BOY EVER! I MEAN, HE'S REALLY LIVED!
I WISH YOU HAD INVITED HIM IN, JILL!
HE WAS TIRED. HE HAD A HEART THAT MAY GIVE OUT ANY MINUTE... AND HIS FATHER'S A RUTHLESS OIL BARON AND HIS BROTHER'S A SCOT!
NOW REALLY, JILL! I MEAN IT! HIS BROTHER HURT HIS HANDS... HAD TO ABANDON A PROMISING CAREER AS A VIOLINIST SO HE TURNED TO DRINK! POOR JUSTIN!

STEVE CANYON
SHALL I ASK THE COLONEL TO COME UP FRONT AFTER TAKEOFF, SIR? HE'S A COMMAND PILOT!
CARSO MANIFEST FOR FINGER ISLAND, SIR! ONE LIGHT COLONEL AND TWENTY ENLISTED MEN CHECKED IN AS PASSENGERS.
AFFIRMATIVE.
I HOPE THE SECURITY MEASURES WON'T INQUIRE YOU, COL. CANYON! IF A LEAK HAS OCCURRED, MY CREW WILL BE BLAMED FOR IT! OF COURSE, I CAN'T STOP YOU FROM GUESSING.
WELL, CAPTAIN, ASIDE FROM THE FACT THAT WE HAD NO OVERSEAS SHOTS YET YOUR AIRCRAFT WAS BOMBED WHEN IT LANDED—WHICH MEANS YOU'RE FROM AN ISLAND IN THE GULF OF MEXICO... NOT TO BE WHILE IT'S SO COLD UP NORTH!
AND SINCE YOU CARRY NO EXTRA FUEL TANKS, YET WE WERE ISSUED LIFE JACKETS! I DON'T HEAR A WORD YOU SAID!
COLONEL, I DIDN'T HEAR A WORD YOU SAID!
